believes we can't separate who we are and how we live from what we say as we interact with people about the good news of Jesus. We need to live out the reconciling forgiveness of God as opposed to loving in the world's way. And when we leave things out of the gospel, not only is the message distorted but so are we as messengers. In this book, Stiles shows us an integrated approach to knowing the gospel, living the gospel, and speaking the gospel, making us whole, healthy evangelists.

Religion and Volunteering Lesley Hustinx, Johan von Essen, Jacques Haers, Sara Mels, 2014-07-17 Religion is considered a key predictor of volunteering: the more religious people are, the more likely they are to volunteer. This positive association enjoys significant support in current research; in fact, it could be considered the default perspective on the relationship between both phenomena. In this book, the authors claim that although the dominant approach is legitimate and essential, it nonetheless falls short in grasping the full complexity of the interaction between religion and volunteering. It needs to be recognized that there are tensions between religion and volunteering, and that these tensions are intensifying as a result of the changing meaning and role of religion in society. Therefore, the central aim and contribution of this book is to demonstrate that the relationship between religion and volunteering is not univocal but differentiated, ambiguous, and sometimes provocative. By introducing the reader to a much wider landscape of perspectives, this volume offers a richer, more complex and variable understanding. Apart from the established positive causality, the authors examine tensions between religion and volunteering from the perspective of religious obligation, religious change, processes of secularization, and notions of post-secularity. They further explore how actions that are considered altruistic, politically neutral, and motivated by religious beliefs can be used for political reasons. This volume opens up the field to new perspectives on religious actors and on how religion and volunteering are enacted outside Western liberal and Christian societies. It emphasizes interdisciplinary perspectives including theology, philosophy, sociology, political science, anthropology, and architecture.

The Pursuit of God in the Company of Friends Richard C. Lamb, Jr., 2010-03-05 You were not meant to walk alone. Many of us struggle to forge deep relationships with God and other people. Modern society has isolated us as rugged individuals, deceiving us into thinking we can make it through life on our own. Individualism has likewise shaped the pattern of Christian discipleship, privatizing faith and separating us from fellow believers. But we come to know God best when others help us on the way. And our friendships develop best when we seek after God together. What would it look like to pursue God not by ourselves but in the company of friends? According to the model of the New Testament, spiritual transformation takes place in the context of Christian community. By unpacking the Gospel narratives of Jesus' ministry with his disciples, Richard Lamb demonstrates how discipleship develops within the shared community life of groups of Christians. He explores a range of topics such as spiritual friendship, hospitality, leadership, service, conflict, forgiveness, and mission in light of Christian community. Engaging stories from real-life experience show how people can form one another spiritually when their lives are tumbled against one another. If you long for more of God, deeper friendships, or both, this book will help you on the journey. Discover the transforming power of discipleship in community Join the pursuit of God in the company of friends Growing Missionaries Biblically R. Zarwulugbo Liberty,2012 For missionaries in the twenty first century change is necessary in order for them to continue to be strong and viable Growing Missionaries Biblically takes a fresh look at Christian missions and proposes a comprehensive biblical missionary training program for short and longterm missions Its objective is to produce an effective cross cultural ministry for Africa and with some modifications globally The goal is to provide a postimperial post colonial model for training missionaries by looking to biblical guidance on the subject Author Dr R Zarwulugbo Liberty is a native of Liberia Africa with biblical theological and practical insights for prospective and seasoned missionaries and their supporters The information he provides can successfully launch and sustain these missionaries in the course of their mission work In order to accomplish his goals he proposes the use of bicultural missionaries A bicultural missionary is one who has studied both his own culture and the culture of the people to be served This missionary will not equate his or her culture with Christianity and will know and understand the practices of the culture he or she serves that can easily be incorporated and assimilated into Christianity Growing Missionaries Biblically proposes a vital curriculum for missionary preparation for cross cultural missionary service
