

An anatomical illustration of a human back and shoulder, rendered in a semi-transparent style to show internal structures. A vibrant red and yellow heat map overlay is applied to the upper back and shoulder blade area, indicating a region of focus or discomfort. A jagged red line, resembling an ECG or a pulse, runs vertically along the left side of the heat map. The word "FITT" is prominently displayed in large, white, bold, sans-serif capital letters across the center of the image, partially overlapping the heat map and the anatomical drawing. Below "FITT", the word "Massage" is written in a white, elegant, cursive script font. A solid red horizontal line is positioned directly beneath the "FITT" text, extending across the width of the image.
