Women without Men Jennifer Utrata, 2015-05-21 Women without Men illuminates Russia's quiet revolution in family life through the lens of single motherhood Drawing on extensive ethnographic and interview data Jennifer Utrata focuses on the puzzle of how single motherhood frequently seen as a social problem in other contexts became taken for granted in the New Russia While most Russians including single mothers believe that two parent families are preferable many also contend that single motherhood is an inevitable by product of two intractable problems weak men reflected they argue in the country's widespread chronic male alcoholism and a weak state considered so because of Russia's unequal economy and poor social services Among the daily struggles to get by and get ahead single motherhood Utrata finds is seldom considered a tragedy Utrata begins by tracing the history of the cultural category of single mother from the state policies that created this category after World War II through the demographic trends that contributed to rising rates of single motherhood to the contemporary tension between the cultural ideal of the two parent family and the de facto predominance of the matrifocal family Providing a vivid narrative of the experiences not only of single mothers themselves but also of the grandmothers other family members and nonresident fathers who play roles in their lives Women without Men maps the Russian family against the country's profound postwar social disruptions and dislocations

Before the Fall Anna Lawton, 2010-09-09 An expanded edition of Kinoglasnost that examines the fascinating world of Soviet cinema during the years of glasnost and perestroika in the 1980s In Before the Fall Anna Lawton shows how the reforms that shook the foundations of the Bolshevik state and affected economic and social structures have been reflected in the film industry A new added chapter provides a commentary on the dramatic changes that marked the beginning of democracy in Russia Soviet cinema has always been closely connected with national political reality challenging the conventions of bourgeois society and educating the people In this pioneering study Lawton discusses the restructuring of the main institutions governing the industry the abolition of censorship the emergence of independent production and distribution systems the dismantling of the old bureaucratic structures and the implementation of new initiatives She also surveys the films that remained unscreened for decades for political reasons films of the new wave that look at the past to search out the truth and those that record current social ills or conjure up a disquieting image of the future What makes Kinoglasnost pre eminent among current studies of the subject is that sustained attention Lawton pays to changes in the formal organization of Soviet cinema and in the cinema industry Julian Graffy Sight and Sound The author constructs a complex multilayered narrative of a steady and significant movement toward radical change in Soviet society an account of the growing anxiety and the hope experienced by Russian filmmakers and the intelligentsia Ludmila Z Pruner Slavic and East European Journal

Cinematic Cold War Tony Shaw, Denise J. Youngblood, 2014-08-15 The Cold War was as much a battle of ideas as a series of military and diplomatic confrontations and movies were a prime battleground for this cultural combat As Tony Shaw and Denise Youngblood show Hollywood sought to export American ideals in movies like Rambo and the Soviet film industry fought back by showcasing Communist ideals in a positive light primarily for their own citizens The two camps traded cinematic blows for more than four decades The first book length comparative survey of cinema s vital role in disseminating Cold War ideologies Shaw and Youngblood s study focuses on ten films five American and five Soviet that in both obvious and subtle ways provided a crucial outlet for the global debate between democratic and communist ideologies For each nation the authors outline industry leaders structure audiences politics and international reach and explore the varied relationships linking each film industry to its respective government They then present five comparative case studies each pairing an American with a Soviet film Man on a Tightrope with The Meeting on the Elbe Roman Holiday with Spring on Zarechnaya Street Fail Safe with Nine Days in One Year Bananas with Officers Rambo First Blood Part II with Incident at Map Grid 36 80 Shaw breathes new life into familiar American films by Elia Kazan and Woody Allen while Youngblood helps readers comprehend Soviet films most have never seen Collectively their commentaries track the Cold War in its entirety from its formative phase through periods of thaw and self doubt to the resurgence of mutual animosity during the Reagan years and enable readers to identify competing core propaganda themes such as decadence versus morality technology versus humanity and freedom versus authority As the authors show such themes blurred notions regarding propaganda and entertainment terms that were often interchangeable and mutually reinforcing during the Cold War Featuring engaging commentary and evocative images from the films discussed Cinematic Cold War offers a shrewd analysis of how the silver screen functioned on both sides of the Iron Curtain As such it should have great appeal for anyone interested in the Cold War or the cinematic arts
