Azeiteiro, 2013-11-19 This book contributes to debates on current sustainability practices with a focus on assessment tools as applied in higher education institutions These institutions are challenged to carry out management research and teaching and to create settings that allow developing new competencies to address the complex global environmental social cultural and economic pressures with which current and future generations are confronted The first chapters discuss issues of sustainability in higher education namely the role of universities in promoting sustainability and the emergent fields of sustainability science and education for sustainable development and how to integrate and motivate sustainability into the university Subsequent chapters present examples of sustainability assessment tools specifically developed for higher education institutions such as the AISHE Auditing Instrument for Sustainability in Higher Education the GASU Graphical Assessment of Sustainability in Universities too the STAUNCH Sustainability tool for Auditing Universities Curricula in Higher Education The use of other integrated tools are also presented The papers have adopted a pragmatic approach characterized by conceptual descriptions including sustainability assessment and reorienting the curricula on the one hand and practical experiences on the other with good practices from different edges of the world

Sustainability Assessment Tools in Higher Education Institutions will be of interest to graduate student lecturers researchers and those setting university policy Higher structures. 1st ed. 1898 Mansfield Merriman, Henry Sylvester Jacoby, 1907

Smith and Hogan's Criminal Law David Ormerod, Karl Laird, John Cyril Smith, Brian Hogan, 2015 Criminal Law is written with the needs of the student foremost in mind to provide more than ever as modern and as comprehensive an exposition of the criminal law as he or she could possibly require Engineering Innovation and Design Artde Kin-Tak Lam, Stephen Prior, Siu-Tsen Shen, Sheng-Joue Young, Liang-Wen Ji, 2019-05-31 This volume represents the proceedings of the 7th International Conference on Innovation Communication and Engineering ICICE 2018 which was held in P R China November 9 14 2018 The conference aimed to provide an integrated communication platform for researchers in a wide range of fields including information technology communication science applied mathematics computer science advanced material science and engineering Hopefully the conference and resulting proceedings will enhance interdisciplinary collaborations between science and engineering technologists in academia and industry within this unique international network The cultural aspects of MINT recruitment: How to overcome the skills shortage by understanding graduates' needs Benjamin Günther, 2014-02-01 This study is based upon the assumption that in case of a shrinking workforce supply in the scope of a possible skills shortage employers would have to adjust their offers in order to attract job candidates Although this topic already is being paid widespread public and scholar attention this book is the first to include cultural aspects into the discussion The book's focus is on the German labor market However it contains findings which are generally applicable As in Germany the public debate is focused on the MINT sector the scope of the examination is limited to exactly this part of the labor market The first part of the book deals with the question if there is a current or upcoming skills shortage related to MINT workforce on the German labor market In the second part there is a comprehensive introduction into the complex of culture in the scope of this book in order to ensure a correct understanding of the following explanations In the course of this introduction it is explained in how far Hofstede's 5D model is related to scholars job choice criteria Afterwards the occurrence of these criteria is examined by a survey among MINT students Subsequently the author makes a recommendation that allows employers to attract MINT scholars in order to cover their need for skilled staff Patents for Inventions: A.D. 1867-1876. [1st ed] Great Britain. Patent office, 1880 Theories Guiding Nursing Research and Practice Joyce J. Fitzpatrick, Geraldine McCarthy, 2014-06-06 Print CourseSmart Constructing Reality Piero Mella, 2020-06-10 This brief presents an overview of Gregory Bateson's Constructivist method of Cognition Bateson proposes a theory of cognition that is based on the abstract notion of difference that the mind distinguishes and perceives and represents information that constitutes and separates how different states are ordered grouped and classified Bateson however does not clearly indicate how a cognitive system can develop a knowledge of reality from the perception of these differences This book seeks to offer a scientific approach to Constructivism Using Bateson's hypothesis chapters discuss how our mind distinguishes and elaborates differences allowing us to form perceptions of objects and how these objects can be described and compared Chapters also discuss how from differences it is possible to construct concepts or ideas of how these can be defined and how to derive from these differences the meanings of the signs used for the structuring of languages The brief offers a coherent structure of propositions that form an interpretative theory of the modus operandi of the human mind which will be useful not only in shedding light on our cognitive processes but also in laying the formal groundwork for artificial intelligence Constructing Reality is a must have resource for researchers and students of the cognitive sciences as well as education sciences and researchers and scholars of artificial intelligence learning theory and intelligent automata programming
