Otto Wittmann Museum Man For All Seasons:

Otto Wittmann Sally Anne Duncan, 2001 In honor of its 100th anniversary the Museum is proud to publish a book about its eminent fourth director Otto Wittmann 1911-2001 His thirty years in Toledo from 1946 through 1976 as director from 1959 saw the Toledo Museum of Art become internationally acclaimed for its collection and its community programs The book describes his path to Toledo from Kansas City via Harvard University and the Art Looting Investigation Unit of the OSS during World War II It then focuses on his expansion of the art collection galleries and exhibitions and on his development of professional and volunteer staff It concludes with a tribute about his contributions to the museum field in America The Art of Curating

Sally Anne Duncan, Andrew McClellan, 2018-08-07 From 1921 until 1948 Paul J Sachs 1878-1965 offered a yearlong program in art museum training Museum Work and Museum Problems through Harvard University's Fine Arts Department Known simply as the Museum Course the program was responsible for shaping a professional field museum curatorship and management that in turn defined the organizational structure and values of an institution through which the American public came to know art Conceived at a time of great museum expansion and public interest in the United States the Museum Course debated curatorial priorities and put theory into practice through the placement of graduates in museums big and small across the land In this book authors Sally Anne Duncan and Andrew McClellan examine the role that Sachs and his program played in shaping the character of art museums in the United States in the formative decades of the twentieth century The Art of Curating is essential reading for museum studies scholars curators and historians To

Inspire and Instruct Christina Nielsen, 2021-02-03 This collection of essays which derive from a symposium held at the Art Institute of Chicago in 2005 tells the story of how medieval art was collected by both individuals and institutions in the American Midwest This book will appeal to both medievalists and scholars of nineteenth and twentieth century American history In addition it will also appeal to scholars who are interested in museum studies and the history of collecting The essays in the first section Collecting and Displaying Medieval Art consider the formation of medieval art collections at influential cultural institutions in three of the most important centers of industry and culture in the Midwest Chicago Detroit and Cleveland The second section Medieval Art as Inspiration and Education examines the motives of both private donors and museum professionals in forming collections and establishing period rooms and cloistered spaces at museums in Toledo Kansas City and St Louis among others At the opposite end of the spectrum was a new trend in curatorial practice beginning in the 1930s that favored the dismantling of period rooms and espoused displaying historical works of art in more distinctly modern settings a theme that pervades section three Medieval Art and Modernism An essay on medieval art in Midwestern university art museums and another one that considers the impact of works from medieval collections in special exhibitions serve as a remarkable coda to the rest of the volume Two appendices follow this one that provides an overview of medieval art collections in Midwestern university museums and another which provides a biographical sketch of prominent dealers of
