Fox, Nada Mourtada-Sabbah, Mohammed Al Mutawa, 2006-09-27 For centuries the Arabian Gulf has been a crossroads where seafaring people and Bedouins alike travelled great distances transacting business Events of the past few years both good and bad have directed the world's attention to the Arabian Peninsula where a rich cultural tradition is rapidly incorporating the latest innovations from around the world This is the process of globalization New economies create enormous potential but it will require great care for the people of the region to steer through a period of profound change Political and economic interests intent on maintaining the flow of petroleum products on one hand and people in the Gulf region who assess their own interests from quite a different perspective on the other exert pressures from conflicting directions Reconciling these interests in a time of rapid globalization poses enormous challenges This timely volume brings together the work of scholars from both the Middle East and the West who have the expertise to evaluate the interaction of new ideas new technologies and new economies Brought together by the American University of Sharjah and the Sociological Association of the UAE the contributors reflect on both the process of globalism and on the traditions of Gulf society and culture offering views on how these trends interact within the global system The Politics of Cultural Development Ben Garner, 2016-04-28 There is a growing recognition of the role that culture can play in sustainable development strategies This development has generally been welcomed but also raises a number of questions What are the implications in policy and practice Who are the most influential voices in promoting a global agenda for culture and development and to what extent has the creation of new international policy instruments reflected a consensus More fundamentally what is meant by culture in these discussions and who has the power to give particular definitions political and legal authority The Politics of Cultural Development seeks to provide a theoretically and historically informed response to such questions illustrated by reference to case studies including the European Union the Caribbean and China Particular attention is paid to the formation of the UNESCO Convention on the Protection and the Promotion of the Diversity of Cultural Expressions a landmark instrument in debates about culture and development The book goes on to explore some of the practical implications that this international treaty is beginning to have for the ways that culture is and is not being integrated into contemporary development policy and practice This book will be useful for students academics and policymakers in the fields of international development international relations international political economy cultural policy and cultural theory OUR FRAGILE WORLD: Challenges and Opportunities for Sustainable Development - Volume II M. Contemporary Perspectives on Art and International Development Polly Stupples, Katerina Teaiwa, 2016-10-26 Visual artists craftspeople musicians and performers have been supported by the development community for at least twenty years yet there has been little grounded and critical research into the practices and politics of that support This new Routledge book remedies that omission and brings together varied perspectives from artists policy makers and researchers working in the Pacific Africa Latin America and Europe to explore the challenges and opportunities of supporting the arts in the development context The book offers a series of grounded analyses which cover strategies for the sustainability of arts enterprises innovative evaluation methods theoretical engagements with questions of art agency and social change artists entanglements with legal and structural frameworks processes of cultural mapping and the artist donor interface The creative economy is increasingly recognized as a driver of development and this book also investigates the contribution made by the arts to the processes of international development and considers how those processes can best be supported by development agencies Contemporary Perspectives on Art and International Development gives scholars of Development Studies Social and Cultural Geography Anthropology Cultural Policy Cultural Studies and Global Studies a contextually and thematically diverse range of insights into this emerging research field

Museums, Heritage and International Development Paul Basu, Wayne Modest, 2014-10-03 While many claims are made regarding the power of cultural heritage as a driver and enabler of sustainable development the relationship between museums heritage and development has received little academic scrutiny This book stages a critical conversation between the interdisciplinary fields of museum studies heritage studies and development studies to explore this under researched sphere of development intervention In an agenda setting introduction the editors explore the seemingly oppositional temporalities and values represented by these past making and future making projects arguing that these provide a framework for mutual critique Contributors to the volume bring insights from a wide range of academic and practitioner perspectives on a series of international case studies which each raise challenging questions that reach beyond merely cultural concerns and fully engage with both the legacies of colonial power inequalities and the shifting geopolitical dynamics of contemporary international relations Cultural heritage embodies different values and can be instrumentalized to serve different economic social and political objectives within development contexts but the past is also intrinsic to the present and is foundational to people's aspirations for the future Museums Heritage and International Development explores the problematics as well as potentials the politics as well as possibilities in this fascinating nexus
