Bibliography for Students of English Arthur Garfield Kennedy, Donald B. Sands, 1966 Charles Edward Ives and His Piano Sonata No. 2 "Concord, Mass. 1840-1860" Alice S. Reed, 2005

Charles Ives greatest music teacher was his father His father was Danbury's musical leader teaching any musical instrument needed He was the Civil War band leader and carried out experiments in sound for example sounds made when three or four bands played together in different keys His son Charles Edward tried to do those sounds in multiple keys no one could play the music It was terribly hard Those who tried it gave up They called him a crackpot or an untrained musician and made fun of him At Yale he was told to follow the rules His instructor disapproved of his music so Ives performed one way in school and followed his own muse at home When he finished at Yale he had decided that he could not make a living with his music He got a job at an insurance company for five dollars a week Soon he and a friend went into partnership and made a good living in the insurance business He kept writing at night and storing it in his barn Ives dual life as a composer and business man led to a physical breakdown in 1918 which left him with permanent cardiac damage During his long convalescence he went through his music and had it published and sent to anyone he thought might be interested It was not to be copyrighted and anyone who wanted a copy was to have one Slowly a few people learned to play parts of it In 1939 John Kirkpatrick learned and played the Concord Sonata People liked it and he repeated it Ives music began to be heard and liked so much so that by the time of his death in 1954 he had become an almost legendary figure Ives way of musical notation resulted in his being called the first American to write 20th Century music

How do we reconcile the abstract reverence for the natural world central to American literary history beginning with Ralph Waldo Emerson s Nature with over a century and a half of widespread environmental destruction Environmental Evasion examines the environmental implications of literary and cultural productions by writers from James Femimore Cooper and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow to Willa Cather John Steinbeck Ernest Hemingway and Zora Neale Hurston Lloyd Willis provocatively argues that the environmentalist outlooks by Cooper and Longfellow were eclipsed by Ralph Waldo Emerson s abstract imperialist vision of nature He demonstrates how many 20th century American writers have taken the Emersonian approach participating in a silent but extremely powerful form of evasive environmental politics in the ways in which they write about the natural world Attentive to the inherent political dimensions of all texts Environmental Evasion insists on the relevance of environmental history and politics to New Americanist approaches to the literary canon
