

Ancient Athens

The most powerful Classical city-state was Athens. Its bustling town spread out around a rocky hill called the Acropolis, topped with gleaming marble temples.

Around 100,000 people lived in Athens, including craftsmen, merchants, philosophers, and politicians.

The city was surrounded by high walls. Towered gateways were designed to let troops through and keep enemies out.

The first great marketplace in Athens was on the Acropolis. Later, the hill became a sacred place for worshipping the gods.

The agora market was at the heart of the city. Athenians came here to buy and sell goods, and catch up on the latest news.

The city's streets

The agora was surrounded by open-fronted market buildings called stoa.

Stoa of Poros

Place for worshipping gods

Many gods were discussed by a group of Athenians called the Areopagus. They met here in the heart of the city to debate important issues.

Stoa - men and women found it useful for both business and social life. The stoa was used as a library, marketplace and a school.

A long road called the Panathenaic Way led from the main city gate.

Athenian officials brought goods to market, but no one was selling there.

Teachers and poets held and gave lectures, but only the rich could afford them.

There were no markets for grain in the city.

Men could be on guard at the city gates.
