The Death Drive Niklas Hageback, 2020-11-01 Sigmund Freud's death drive remains among the most controversial concepts in psychoanalysis something which post Freudians never could reach consensus on Over time it fell into oblivion Recent developments however have actualized the interest in the death drive as political upheavals and turmoil lead to societal breakdowns that according to reigning academic theory should not exist It has become a burning and contentious topic Existing conflict theories generally unmask structural factors considered as explanatory root causes whether social economic or political in nature but typically these factors may have been in place for decades These models consistently fail to identify the triggers that ignite abrupt change and what heralds it Anecdotally a certain self destructive sentiment seems to suddenly hold sway where the established order the status quo simply must be destroyed and the psychological urges to do so are too great to resist But why would individuals or collectives elect a self destructive path which on a superficial level seems to conflict with the survival instinct and the assumption of perpetual human progress Thus the question must be posed are these manifestations of the death drive
