H. G. Wells, Modernity and the Movies Keith Williams, 2007-12-01 This book investigates Wells's interest in cinema and related media technologies by placing it back into the contemporary cultural and scientific contexts giving rise to them. It plugs a gap in understanding Wells's contribution to exploring and advancing the possibilities of cinematic narrative and its social and ideological impacts in the modern period. Previous studies concentrate on adaptations; this book accounts for the specifically proto-cinematic techniques and concerns of Wells's texts. It also focuses on contemporary film making in dialogue with his ideas. Alongside Hollywood's later transactions it gives equal weight to neglected British and continental European dimensions. Chapter 1 shows how early writings The Time Machine and short stories feature many kinds of radically defamiliarised vision. These constitute imaginative speculations about the forms and potentials of moving image and electronic media. Chapter 2 discusses the power of voyeurism, absent presence and the disjunction of sound image reproduction implied in The Invisible Man and its topical politics updated in notable screen versions. Chapter 3 extends this to dystopian warnings of systematic surveillance, broadcasting of celebrity personae and post-literate video culture in When the Sleeper Wakes, a crucial template for urban futures on film. Chapter 4 analyses Wells's belated return to screenwriting in the 1930s. It accounts for his broadbrow ambition of mediating between popular and avant-garde tendencies to promote his cause and its mixed results in Things to Come, The Man Who Could Work Miracles etc. Chapter 5 finally surveys Wells's legacy on both small and large screens. It considers whether as well as being raided for scenarios for spectacular effects, his subtexts still nourish an evolving tradition of alternative SF which duly critiques the innovations and applications of its host media. Movies on Home Ground Ian Craven, 2020-07-13 Movies on Home Ground Explorations in Amateur Cinema offers a critical response to the still under-explored mode of amateur cinema as a particular sphere of British film practice. Concentrating upon a roughly fifty-year period, 1930-1980, during which such filmmaking grew rapidly as a significant leisure activity in Britain, the volume shows how popular cine assumed distinctive institutional and ideological forms and some remarkable aesthetic emphases grounded in consistent technical and critical apparatuses. Although an outline history of such filmmaking is certainly implicit, the priority of Movies On Home Ground is to offer a series of overlapping perspectives on amateur movie making with a view to locating such filmmaking as a component of the broader shape of British film culture. Emphasis is thus given to institutional contexts, technical determinants and the social formations of practising filmmakers as well as to concerns with the construction of amateur outlooks, understandings of amateur aesthetics and the remarkable diversity of amateur genericity. The anthology thus supplies a text offering support to study courses dealing with the many varieties of non professional participation best understood as truly amateur rather than as independent or alternative filmmaking By granting the amateur a place within the acknowledged range of significant interventions the recognised canon of British filmmaking is widened in fascinating new directions School & Society James McKeen Cattell, Will Carson Ryan, Raymond Walters, 1919 Movie Circuits Gabriel Menotti, 2025-10-01 Movie Circuits Curatorial Approaches to Cinema Technology attempts to grasp media in the making It delves into the underbelly of cinema in order to explore how images circulate and apparatus crystallize across different material formations The interdisciplinary experience of curators and projectionists provides a means to suspend traditional film studies and engage with the medium as it happens as a continuing self differing mess From contemporary art exhibitions to pirate screenings research and practice come together in a vibrant form of media scholarship built from the angle of cinema s functionaries a call to reinvent the medium from within Proceedings of the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania, 1928 Appended to v 12 are 15 articles on methods for the analysis of ores c 101 p
