Literate Lives Amy Seely Flint, 2007-11-09 Literate Lives Teaching Reading and Writing in Elementary Classrooms invites readers to consider the complexities of the reading process in diverse settings. The text is designed to meet the challenges and needs of undergraduate and graduate teacher candidates in elementary education programs helping them to have a better first year in the classroom experience. The text introduces teacher candidates to the notion that reading is a complex multi-layered process that begins early in a child's life. Reading by all accounts is more than decoding symbols on a page. While this is one component of the reading process it is important for teacher candidates to see a broader more complete picture of reading. Given the role that reading plays in the elementary school curriculum it is imperative that teachers have a well-developed understanding of the reading process and what it means to be a teacher of readers. Literate Lives Teaching Reading and Writing in the Elementary Classroom covers the major theories and application strategies of the reading process as well as current debates in the field using a unique framework that builds upon the following themes: believing that literacy is based in social cultural and historical contexts assuming an inquiry stance being problem posers and wondering why using kidwatching Goodman 1985 as an assessment tool to make informed instructional decisions recognizing and using the multiple literacies that children bring to the classroom lingering and reflecting on one's decisions in light of what one knows and believes.

Handbook of Research on Family Literacy Practices and Home-School Connections Fox, Kathy R., Szech, Laura E., 2022-06-24 Research has shown that families and schools that partner together improve literacy outcomes for their students. Family literacy includes homework and shared book reading but goes beyond these school-to-home activities to encompass family-generated practices. These literacies include family connections around activities such as cooking play religion social and community groups. Further study on the importance of the partnership between the home and school is required to implement best practices and provide students with the best possible education The Handbook of Research on Family Literacy Practices and Home School Connections seeks to understand the connections made and new information learned during the COVID 19 pandemic surrounding family literacy and shares updated practices and new perspectives on what it means to partner with families and embrace diverse family literacies in this new world The book also provides teachers perspectives on how future relationships between the school and home can be shaped through both narrative and research based chapters Covering key topics such as parenting homework and social distancing this major reference work is ideal for administrators school faculty academicians scholars practitioners instructors and students
