Other Ways Of Growing Old Anthropological Perspectives:

Other Ways of Growing Old Pamela T. Amoss, Stevan Harrell, 1981 As anthropologists we offer this book about aging in a wide variety of human societies in the hope of its making three contributions First this book will help to remedy a massive neglect of old age by the discipline of anthropology The pioneering work of Leo Simmons 1945 has remained a lonely monument since the 1940 s for despite recent interest in the subject of aging in modern Western societies on the part of social gerontologists and sociologists little has been done by anthropologists on aging in non Western societies Where it has been treated at all it has been in the form either of a few final paragraphs in the discussion of the life cycle or of a simple ethnographic fact among other facts about a certain social system What has been missing has been any attempt to put aging in a cross cultural or comparative perspective to give this vital subject the same treatment that has been accorded marriage for example or death or inheritance or sex roles Second this book will bring a needed cross cultural perspective to the study of social gerontology The recent explosion of interest in this field has been largely confined to the study of aging in North America and Europe But we anthropologists feel that such a culturally limited study though interesting and productive in its own right is dangerously narrow if it does not consider what aging is like in other societies What aspects of aging for example are human universals and have to be planned for as inevitable and what aspects are cultural particulars and can be avoided modified or strengthened under certain social conditions By presenting both a biological account of the universals of human aging Weiss and specific ethnographic accounts of aging in a wide variety of societies we believe we can help to put North American aging into perspective Third we hope this book will serve as an illustration of a particular anthropological approach to unity and diversity in human societies and cultures Perhaps the main task of sociocultural anthropology is a twofold one the explanation of cross cultural universals somehow rooted either in the biological nature of the human species or in universal imperatives of social organization and the explanation of intercultural variations rooted in a dialectical interaction between culture and the material conditions partially created by culture in which it exists If unity and diversity can indeed be explained in this way the cross cultural study of aging can serve as a paradigm By first setting out what seem to be the universals determined by the biology of the human species and by then exploring the range of variation in cultural solutions we ought to be able to formulate a set of principles that will allow us to explain why variations occur in a certain way Nine ethnographic case studies are enough we believe to enable us to formulate some preliminary hypotheses about the nature and causes of variation in the social process of aging Other Ways of Growing Old ,1981 Handbook of Mental Health and Aging James E. Birren, Gene D. Cohen, R. Bruce Sloane, Barry D. Lebowitz, Donna E. Deutchman, May Wykle, Nancy R. Hooyman, 2013-10-22 This book is a thorough revision of one of the most comprehensive reference volumes for persons working in the area of aging and mental health The thrust of the work is interdisciplinary and discusses research on both clinical and practical issues in aging and mental health The multidisciplinary nature of this book and the inclusion of subject matter from the professional as well as research realm result in a level of comprehensiveness which is distinct in the field of mental health and aging Each chapter contains a comprehensive bibliography the compilation of which represents a definitive reference source in the field The chapters review state of the art research in the biological behavioral and social sciences and represent the cutting edge of current practice in psychiatry neurology social work nursing psychology and pharmacology among other professions The compilation of prevalence data is a much needed addition to the current literature The multidisciplinary nature of this book and the inclusion of both clinical and practical issues makes the book distinctively comprehensive

Other Cultures, Elder Years Ellen Rhoads Holmes, Lowell D. Holmes, 1995-05-24 Holmes and Holmes have revised their 1983 book and it remains a good supplement for an undergraduate gerontology course or anthropology course It is written at a readable level each chapter has a clear summary It provides an excellent summary of secondary sources avoiding extensive review of primary research complicated theory and methodological issues Clinical Gerontologist Hailed as extremely well organized balanced and impartial in its first edition by The Gerontologist Other Cultures Elder Years is once again available in a fully revamped second edition This new edition provides a comprehensive comparative viewpoint on our knowledge about worldwide patterns of aging It addresses everything from demographic patterns to family relations from perceptions of the life cycle to the impact of modernization on the aged Replete with summaries of crucial studies from various parts of the world Other Cultures Elder Years also offers three extended case descriptions of Inuit Samoan and white American aged as well as an examination of aging patterns among major American ethnic groups Among the other subjects the text addresses are cultural perspectives in health care the future of aging in America and creativity and the life cycle Other Cultures Elder Years is the key text available for use by anyone teaching courses on aging and culture I found the current book a significant improvement over the first edition It remains to be the only usable text in the anthropology of aging available I see the audiences for the book as instructors for the following courses Anthropology of Aging Sociology of Aging and general social gerontology courses I have used this book in past Anthropology of Aging courses and would do so again Jay Sokolovsky University of Maryland Baltimore County This book does a truly artful job of organizing and presenting the complex diversity of human experience related to aging and cultural influence This book offers an implicit biocultural laboratory to the reader the biologic universal of human aging is shaped by the prism of cultural influence The reader is guided through the evolutionary history of aging among anthropoid primates to hominids to Homo sapiens sapiens who are then examined from cultural perspectives found around the globe The effect is one of inquiry search synthesis and ultimately a confrontation with our inner selves as we negotiate the inexorable march toward our ultimate destiny J Neil Henderson Suncoast Gerontology Center University of South Florida collection will present works that offer illuminating perspectives on the remarkably diverse Asian American populations of the United States As a population that is neither black nor white the range of experiences of these groups many of whom arrived as refugees presents other perspectives on the cultural mosaic that constitutes the United States Studies of Asian Americans sheds light on issues related to immigration refugee policy transnationalism return migration cultural citizenship ethnic communities community building identity and group formation panethnicity race relations gender and class entrepreneurship employment representation politics adaptation and acculturation The writings in this collection are drawn from a wide variety of disciplines to provide a broad and informative array of insights on these fascinating and diverse populations Aging in Today's World Renée Rose Shield, Stanley M. Aronson, 2005 Never before in human existence have the aged been so numerous and for the most part healthy In this important new book two professionals an anthropologist and a physician wrestle with the complex subject of aging Is it inevitable Is it a burden or gift What is successful aging Why are some people better at aging than others Where is aging located How does it vary among individuals within and between groups cultures societies and indeed over the centuries Reflecting on these and other questions the authors comment on the impact age has in their lives and work Two unique viewpoints are presented While medicine approaches aging with special attention given to the body its organs and its functions over time anthropology focuses on how the aged live within their cultural settings As this volume makes clear the two disciplines have a great deal to teach each other and in a spirited exchange the authors show how professional barriers can be surmounted In a novel approach each author explores a different aspect of aging in alternating chapters These chapters are in turn followed by a commentary by the other Further the authors interrupt each other within the chapters to raise questions contradict ask for clarification and explore related ideas with these interjections emphasizing the dynamic nature of their ideas about age Finally a third voice that of a random old man periodically inserts itself into the text to remind the authors of their necessarily limited understanding of the subject

Handbook of Interview Research Jaber F. Gubrium, James A. Holstein, 2002 The Handbook of Interview Research is the most ambitious attempt yet at examining the place of the interview in contemporary society Interviewing is the predominant mode of research in the social sciences It is also the stock in trade of information seekers in organizations and institutions of all kinds as well as in the mass media Across the board interviews provide today's leading window on the world of experience The Handbook offers a comprehensive examination of the interview at the cutting edge of information technology Drawing upon leading experts from a wide range of professional disciplines this book addresses conceptual and technical challenges that confront both academic researchers and interviewers with more applied goals From interview theory to the nuts and bolts of the interview process the coverage is impressively broad and authoritative The Handbook of Interview Research is both encyclopedic and thematic As an encyclopedia it provides extensive discussions of the methodological issues now surrounding interview practice offering a multi faceted assessment of what has become the method of choice for obtaining personal information in today s society But the Handbook also is a story which spins a particular tale of interviewing one that moves from the commonly recognized individual interview to what is called the interview society The gist of the presentation is that we can no longer regard the interview as simply an instrument for gathering data but must now also view it an integral part of society

Autonomy and Long-term Care George J. Agich,1993 The realities and misconceptions of long term care and the challenges it presents for the ethics of autonomy are analyzed in this perceptive work While defending the concept of autonomy the author argues that the standard view of autonomy as non interference and independence has only a limited applicability for long term care He explains that autonomy should be understood as a comprehensiveness that defines the overall course of a person s life rather than as a way of responding to an isolated situation Agich distinguishes actual and ideal autonomy and argues that actual autonomy is better revealed in the everyday experiences of long term care than in dramatic conflict ridden paradigm situations such as decisions to institutionalize to initiate aggressive treatments or to withhold or to withdraw life sustaining treatments Through a phenomenological analysis of long term care he develops an ethical framework for it by showing how autonomy is actually manifest in certain structural features of the social world of long term care Throughout this timely work the rich sociological and anthropological literature on aging and long term care is referenced and the practical ethical questions of promoting and enhancing the exercise of autonomy are addressed

Reclaimed Powers David Gutmann,1994 A unique feature of human development is that mothers and fathers are bound to a long period of child rearing during which the continuity of our species depends on the fulfilment of distinct parental roles and on the suppression of psychological potentials that conflict with those roles But once the parental emergency is over the author argues men and women can assert those parts of their personalities curbed by the restrictions of raising children It is this shift in roles a product of evolution found throughout our species that led David Gutmann to propose a new psychology of ageing based not on the threat of loss but on the promise of important new pleasures and capacities

Aging and Biography Gary M. Kenyon,James E. Birren,Jan-Erik Ruth,Johannes J.F. Schroots,Torbjorn Svensson,2004-01-01 Personal life narratives can serve as a rich source of new insights into the experience of human aging In this comprehensive volume an international team of editors and contributors provide effective approaches to using biography to enhance our understanding of adult development In addition to providing new theoretical aspects on aging and biography the book also details new developments concerning the practical use of different biographical approaches in both research and clinical work This is a landmark volume advancing the use of narrative approaches in gerontology

Aging and Menopause Among Indian South African Women Brian M. Du Toit, 1990-01-01 Du Toit contributes to the study of the climacteric as an important phase of the life cycle among women of different cultures the later reproductive and postreproductive years Drawing upon perspectives in anthropology sociology psychology and gerontology he demonstrates the need for an adequate cross cultural theory of aging among women and offers a solid body of research from South Africa in establishing a standard methodology for the study of the climacteric

Peaceful Peoples Bruce D. Bonta, 1993-12-01

Peaceful peoples are societies that have developed harmonious social structures which allow them to get along with each other and with outsiders without violence. Most of these peoples foster a spirit of cooperation rather than competition, promote sharing rather than glorifying greed, and live in harmony with the earth as well as with other people. Perhaps most importantly, they believe that peacefulness is the defining characteristic of their humanity. Some of the peoples included in the book are from the Western tradition such as the Amish, Hutterites, Mennonites, Quakers, and Tristan Islanders from South America; the Piaroa from Africa; the Fipa from South Asia; the Paliyan, Malapandaram, and Nayaka from Southeast Asia; the Semai, Chewong, and Buid from Micronesia; and the Ifaluk. This selected bibliography includes annotated references to books, articles, and other English language publications that provide significant information about a peaceful society. The author has combed the literature of fields such as anthropology, psychology, sociology, history, and religious studies for appropriate works with a cutoff date of 1992. Scholars and peace activists who are interested in societies that foster peacefulness have difficulty finding references to the literature. Numerous indexes and abstracts do not include subject headings such as peaceful peoples. Furthermore, indexing services often do not cover chapters in edited volumes, an important part of this literature. The book includes a very detailed name and subject index that provides access to the intriguing social, psychological, and cultural similarities and differences existing among the peoples.

Breaking the Watch Joel S. Savishinsky, 2018-08-06. The topic of retirement becomes increasingly compelling as the U.S. population ages. It's easy to find books about how to plan financially for those years after careers end, but Breaking the Watch focuses on the many ways of creating a life, not just making a living, as a retired person. This book follows women and men from a rural American community as they approach and experience the first years of retirement. Joel Savishinsky focuses on the efforts people make to find meaning in a stage of life. American culture often views it in a confused or disdainful way. In conversations and stories, 13 men and 13 women demonstrate a deep commitment to defining their own retirement. They bring to their mature years a diversity of backgrounds, interests, and responsibilities. They include former teachers, librarians, doctors, farmers, lawyers, bankers, mail carriers, and secretaries. Some are married, others divorced or single; many have children and grandchildren, but some have neither. Their finances run the gamut from the modest to the munificent, while their health ranges from robust to disabled. From an examination of the rites of passage that marked their exit from full-time work, Breaking the Watch moves on to consider how to plan appropriately for retirement, renegotiate ties to friends, family, and community, and create a sense of passion, be it for tai chi, travel, painting, or politics, that will drive a new sense of purpose. These intimate glimpses into real lives allow a rare understanding of the retirement process.
