Rivalries In Ethiopia:

Rivalries in Ethiopia. By Elizabeth P. MacCallum ... Introduction by Newton D. Baker. [With a Map.]. World Peace Foundation (BOSTON, Mass.), Newton Diehl BAKER, Elizabeth Pauline MacCallum, 1935 Discussing Conflict in Ethiopia Wolbert Smidt, Kifle Abraham, 2007 This volume contains the papers presented at the Conference Ethiopian and German Contributions to Conflict Management and Resolution of November 2005 Addis Ababa The aim of this conference was to bring researchers and those working in the practical field of conflict resolution together before the background of renewed internal and international conflict Research in conflict resolution mechanisms is one of the most hopeful fields in modern social sciences Local conflicts can have devastating effects on the state and even involve the international level In turn international conflict can also destabilize society and create new local conflicts However local conflict resolution mechanisms could be of a great importance even within the international scene This volume examines the experiences in Ethiopia and the impact the acquired knowledge could have for future conflict resolution and management Rivalries in Ethiopia Elizabeth Pauline MacCallum, 1935 Strategic Rivalries in World Politics Michael P. Colaresi, Karen Rasler, William R. Thompson, 2008-01-10 International conflict is neither random nor inexplicable It is highly structured by antagonisms between a relatively small set of states that regard each other as rivals Examining the 173 strategic rivalries in operation throughout the nineteenth and twentieth centuries this book identifies the differences rivalries make in the probability of conflict escalation and analyzes how they interact with serial crises arms races alliances and capability advantages The authors distinguish between rivalries concerning territorial disagreement space and rivalries concerning status and influence position and show how each leads to markedly different patterns of conflict escalation They argue that rivals are more likely to engage in international conflict with their antagonists than non rival pairs of states and conclude with an assessment of whether we can expect democratic peace economic development and economic interdependence to constrain rivalry induced conflict Post-Conflict Economies in Africa Augustin Kwasi Fosu, 2005-01-13 This volume brings together a collection of papers which review the wide ranging issues arising out of post conflict economies in Africa Case studies drawing on experiences from West Central and Southern Africa illuminate and complement the thematic overview Extensive analysis illustrates the policies and strategies available for the reconstruction and rehabilitation of post conflict African economies to establish sustainable political social and financial institutions which promote stability growth and equity and reduce the risks of conflict recurring Conflict Resolution in Africa Francis M. Deng, I. William Zartman, 2011-07-01 While dramatic changes are taking place on the international scene and among the major powers Africa continues to suffer from a multitude of violent conflicts The toll of these conflicts is monumental in terms of war damage to productivity scarce resources diverted to armaments and military organizations and the resulting insecurity displacement and destruction At the same time Africans in response to internal demands as well as to international changes have begun to focus their attention and energies on these problems and are trying innovative ways to resolve differences by nonviolent means The outcomes of these attempts have urgent and complex implications for the future of the continent with respect to human rights principles of democracy and economic development In this book African European and U S experts examine these important issues and the prospects for conflict management and resolution in Africa They review the scholarship in resolution in light of international changes now taking place Addressing the undying internal causes of conflict they question whether global events will promote peace or threaten to unleash even more conflict The authors focus their analysis on the issues involved in African conflicts and examine the areas in need of the most dramatic changes They offer specific recommendations for dealing with current problems but caution that unless policymakers confront the security situation in Africa further destruction to national unity and political and economic stability is imminent Case studies and themes for further long term research are recommended
