

Figure 1 Global income and wealth inequality, 2021

Interpretation: The global 50% captures 8% of total income measured at Purchasing Power Parity (PPP). The global bottom 50% owns 2% of wealth (at Purchasing Power Parity). The global top 10% owns 76% of total Household wealth and captures 52% of total income in 2021. Note that top wealth holders are not necessarily top income holders. Incomes are measured after the operation of pension and unemployment systems and before taxes and transfers. Sources and series: wir2022.wid.world/methodology.

New Inequalities The Changing Distribution Of Income And Wealth In The United Kingdom:

New Inequalities John Hills, 1996-05-31 In this book first published in 1996 leading specialists examine wealth distribution developments The Personal Distribution of Income in an International Perspective Richard Hauser, Irene Becker, 2012-12-06 Irene Becker and Richard Hauser Bringing Income Distribution in From The Cold was the title Anthony B Atkinson gave his Presidential Address to the Royal Economic Society in 1996 This provocative formulation was intended to draw attention to the way in which the subject of income distribution long has been marginalised in the field of economics Atkinson 1997 In recent years however scientific interest in matters of personal income distribution has been growing One reason for this recent concern stems from the political sphere The factors of reinforced competition between countries due to the globalisation of markets and European integration high unemployment rates and demographic changes necessitate reforms of labour markets tax systems and social security systems These reforms will affect both allocation and distribution so that reliable information on both areas is needed to devise balanced political programs Another reason for the burgeoning literature on personal income distribution is the improved availability of data on individual income which are a major prerequisite for detailed analyses of distribution topics Last but not least the development of powerful computers advanced statistics econometric packages and extended micro simulation models enables researchers both to work with huge individual data sets to describe and explain the personal distribution of income and to simulate the effects of political social and economic programs The volume at hand is based on some of the research advances in this field during the last decade

Handbook of Income Distribution Anthony Barnes Atkinson, François Bourguignon, 2000 Discourse on Inequality in France and Britain John Edwards, Jean-Paul Révauger, 2018-10-03 Published in 1998 this volume consists of 16 edited papers presented at an Anglo French conference on inequality in France in March 1997 The purpose of this book is to bring together ideas and perceptions of inequality in the two countries across several areas including multi ethnicity education social work housing and health presented by experts in these fields and in cultural studies The purpose is not comparative in the traditional sense but rather to analyze the different meanings and conceptions that apply to inequality in France and Britain and to demonstrate how these differences affect policies as well as what is considered to be legitimate grounds for policy intervention This approach to social policy in Europe pays attention to the cultural meanings of concepts like inequality and demonstrates that comparative social policy can only be properly productive when it acknowledges that key words like poverty inequality citizenship social rights and insertion exclusion carry with them quite different ideological moral and social meanings in two countries such as Britain and France Modelling Geographical Systems B. Boots, A. Okabe, R. Thomas, 2013-11-11 Within the realm of quantitative geography systems modelling is specifically concerned with understanding those relationships that influence the attributes of phenomena located in space and time The intention is to replicate the main processes influencing a system's behaviour and thereby assist its management through a capability to estimate future change Over the last few decades one of the major institutional initiatives for promoting such research has been provided by specialised Study Groups and Commissions established by the International Geographical Union IGU These scholarly networks have aimed to co ordinate international research agendas for geographical systems model ling and their activities have been recorded in both edited volumes Fischer and Getis 1997 and special issues of learned journals Wilkinson and Boots 2000 Leung and Okabe 2001 Presently this facilitative task is the charge of the Commission on Modelling Geographical Systems CMGS appointed at the IGU Hague Congress in 1996 and chaired by Barry Boots 1996 2000 and Richard Thomas 2000 present Set against this background this book provides a perspective on the work of the CMGS from 1996 until the IGU Seoul Congress in August 2000 through a collection of papers first presented to our sessions at this event Moreover a number of Japanese delegates were attracted to this Asian venue and their con tributions provide many new ideas concerning the implementation of systems analysis
