Burke, 1999-06-30 An examination of the language of law in the area of political representation this book considers the development and recognition of group claims brought pursuant to the Voting Rights Act and the Equal Protection Clause in Supreme Court opinions In his analysis Burke highlights the different discursive strategies broadly identified as liberal and communitarian used by the Supreme Court to justify the outcomes of various cases and he argues that no particular strategy of justification is inherently politically conservative or liberal and that no conception of political representation is unassailable Therefore it is unlikely that the Supreme Court will articulate a stable measure of fair representation The Supreme Court offers one more forum in the deliberation over what is fair representation however it is not likely to provide minority communities with a legal answer to the problem of political underrepresentation As such this book tells the uncertain story of the creation of political fairness by the Supreme Court The language used to characterize what is fair and representative and the theoretical designs which the rhetoric reflects allows us to formulate concepts of fair representation as legal standards evolve By placing the debate over fair representation in not only political and legal but also philosophical terms we are better able to understand the inevitable tensions that drive the concept of representation into new ill defined and contentious areas Expand Your Vocabulary Ray E. Why America Needs to Repent Dwane Massenburg, 2022-02-15 America needs to repent for the kingdom of God is at hand. This is a bold statement when the United States is considered to be the most powerful nation on Earth. Should we repent individually or collectively? In Why America Needs to Repent, author Pastor Dwane Massenburg explores the subject of repentance in today's world, considering what repentance means and the pressing reasons why America should repent. He addresses a host of related questions: How do we grapple with America being a predominately Christian nation in the twenty-first century? Are Jesus' teachings still relevant? Are Christians allowed to be different now? Has God changed his mind about what it means to be a Christian? How should we act as Christians today? Based upon the Bible, the word of God, Why America Needs to Repent communicates crucial messages about repentance and its relevance and importance in today's society. We need to repent because we work better together with God; understanding the love of God is the absolute best way to get us to do that. We need to repent because nothing else will work.
