New Geopolitics Of Central Asia:

The New Geopolitics of Central Asia and Its Borderlands Ali Banuazizi, Myron Weiner, 1994 This book focuses on the newly independent Muslim republics of the former Soviet Union in Central Asia especially Uzbekistan Tajikistan and Azerbaijan It examines the recent economic and political developments in these states with reference to the lingering legacy of Tsarist Russian and Soviet rule the resurgence of an Islamic political identity the persistence of ethnic allegiances and rivalries and the nascent democratic aspirations of their peoples CENTRAL ASIA: THE NEW GEOPOLITICS. Rand Corporation, The New Geopolitics of Central Asia Cagri Erdem, 1999 Central Asia Graham E. Fuller, 1992 Since their emergence onto the world scene as independent nations the Muslim republics of Central Asia have been in a period of rapid transition trying to determine their own cultural identities and to form new patterns of alliances and associations

The New Geopolitics of Central Asia Ali Banuazizi, Myron Weiner, 1995 This book focuses on the newly independent Muslim republics of the former Soviet Union in Central Asia especially Uzbekistan Tajikistan and Azerbaijan It examines the recent economic and political developments in these states with reference to the lingering legacy of Tsarist Russian and Soviet rule the resurgence of an Islamic political identity the persistence of ethnic allegiances and rivalries and the nascent democratic aspirations of their peoples A distinguishing feature of the book is its emphasis on the long standing religious ethnic and cultural ties between the peoples of Central Asia and those of the four South west Asian states of Afghanistan Iran Pakistan and Turkey Viewing the new alliances rivalries and potential conflicts among these states within a regional context the authors provide an informed assessment of the geopolitics of a region with a population of over 300 000 000 people The implications of these regional developments for the West are also set out Bloomsbury Publishing Central Asia Dianne Louise Smith, 1996 In January 1996 the U S Army War College s Strategic Studies Institute SSI and the Center for Strategic and International Studies CSIS hosted a conference on Asian Security to the Year 2000 One focus of the conferees was the growing relevance of events in Central Asia Perhaps nowhere on the continent was the Cold War transformation in the security environment more dramatic than in Central Asia There the sudden retraction of Soviet power and decline in superpower competition was rapidly followed by the creation of new states whose prospects for legitimacy development and independent survival were at best uncertain The half decade that has followed the dissolution of the Soviet Union has not been sufficient time for any of the vast challenges facing Central Asia to have been addressed definitively Nor can we be confident that a stable regional system has coalesced Yet the past 5 years have produced an emerging pattern of relations amenable to tentative analysis Lieutenant Colonel Dianne Smith of SSI details the complex problems facing the region and then turns her attention to Central Asia s evolving security structure By involving the Great Game analogy she takes the perspective that for this part of the continent it is the nations surrounding the region that will play the primary role in shaping its future although the new Central Asian nations are participants not pawns in this struggle for influence Colonel

Smith's analysis focuses on the interests and actions of five of those surrounding nations: Iran, Pakistan, India, Russia, and China. Each has significant interests in Central Asia and each thus far has tempered to some degree its actions to advance those interests in recognition of the competing objectives of the others. For the United States, a power vacuum in Central Asia seems a remote concern at first blush.

The New Geopolitics of the South Caucasus Shireen T. Hunter, 2017-09-22. This collection surveys the three South Caucasian states' economic, social, and political evolution since their independence in 1991. It assesses their successes and failures in these areas, including their attempts to build new national identities and value systems to replace Soviet-era structures. It explains the interplay of domestic and international factors that have affected their performance and influenced the balance of their successes and shortcomings. It focuses on the policies pursued by key regional and international actors towards the region and assesses the effects of regional and international rivalries on these states' development as well as on the prospects for regional cooperation and conflict resolution. Finally, it analyzes a number of regional and international developments which could affect the future trajectory of these states' evolution.
