Housing Policy in Latin American Cities Peter M. Ward, Edith R. Jiménez Huerta, María Mercedes Di Virgilio, 2015-06-03

After the 1960s rapid urbanization in developing regions in Latin America Africa and Asia was marked by the expansion of low income irregular settlements that developed informally and which by the 2000s often constituted between 20 60 percent of the built up area of metropolitan areas and other large cities There has been a variety of research directed at the housing policies involved with these informal settlements yet apart from the activities of Latin American Housing Network LAHN there has been minimal attention directed at the earliest portion of settlements that formed some 25 40 years ago that now form a large part of the intermediate ring of the cities This volume breaks new ground by opening up a new generation of housing policy in Latin America cities with broader application for other developing countries Its editors bring unique perspectives Peter Ward coordinates the LAHN and Edith Jim nez and Mar a Di Virgilio are founding members of the network who have led project teams in Guadalajara and Buenos Aires respectively Developed as a coordinated collaborative research project the volume encompasses nine Latin American countries and eleven cities The editors and contributors offer original perspectives on the policy challenges facing much of the low income housing of Latin American cities document the changing nature of the first suburbs present comparative survey findings in order to better understand the types of consolidated settlements that exist today describe the physical nature of the dwellings themselves identify the reasons behind market dysfunction that impede the operation of consolidated housing informal markets in Latin American cities and outline a new generation of housing policies that will support the processes of densification rehabilitation and regeneration of these settlements This book is the first and only composite overview of the research findings and advocacy of the generic policy lines that the LAHN identifies as central to a new generation of housing strategies and approaches Researchers and practitioners working on housing theory housing policy comparative spatial and sociological research and urban development issues will find the book highly significant

American Housing Production, 1880-2000 Mason C. Doan,1997 American Housing Production 1880 2000 presents a concise history of nonfarm housing production progress and policy in the United States This century has been divided into a 14 part chronological structure with irregular time intervals in contrast to conventional decade time periods This arrangement is intended to reflect more fully the economic and political forces causing short run movements in housing output This book treats housing production within a broad economic demographic and political context Special relative measures of housing production mortgage debt and household formation have been developed to provide historical perspective over the period covered Strong emphasis is placed on the growth and improved quality of the housing stock and on the evolution of community facilities essential to safe and sanitary housing and of a mortgage credit system capable of supporting rising levels of production and home ownership It analyzes the uneven results of Federal housing legislation including the effort to assure equal access for all citizens to housing and mortgage markets and the unfortunate experience of the Department of Housing and Urban Development A look ahead to future prospects for housing production concludes the book

Housing America Randall G. Holcombe, 2017-07-05 Housing policy not only affects all Americans quality of life but has a direct impact on their financial well being About 70 percent of American households own their own homes and for most their homes represent the majority of their net worth Renters are affected by housing policy Even the small minority of Americans who are homeless are affected by housing policies specifically targeted to low income individuals The government's increasing involvement in housing markets fed by popular demand that government do something to address real problems of mortgage defaults and loans provides good reason to take a new look at the public sector in housing markets Crises in prime mortgage lending may lower the cost of housing but the poor and homeless cannot benefit because of increases in unemployment Even the private market is heavily regulated Government policies dictate whether people can build new housing on their land what type of housing they can build the terms allowed in rental contracts and much more This volume considers the effects of government housing policies and what can be done to make them work better It shows that many problems are the result of government rules and regulations Even in a time of foreclosures the market can still do a crucial job of allocating resources just as it does in other markets Consequently the appropriate policy response may well be to significantly reduce not increase government presence in housing markets Housing America is a courageous and comprehensive effort to examine housing policies in the United States and to show how such policies affect the housing market

A New Housing Policy for America David C. Schwartz, Richard C. Ferlauto, Daniel N. Hoffman, 1988 This book proposes a comprehensive innovative and largely self financing plan to meet America's housing needs in the 1990s Showing how current housing policies and housing needs are diametrically opposed the authors analyze more than two hundred new state national and international housing efforts to derive a plan that will meet the challenge of U S housing and demographic trends in the 1990s Projecting the special needs of young families single parent families and low and moderate income families in the 1990s David Schwartz Richard Ferlauto and Daniel Hoffman propose new roles for non profit organizations and employers Their new plan advocates a federal down payment assistance loan program a lease purchase home buying program an employer assisted homeownership plan a mortgage interest rate buydown fund shared equity mortgages a new National Housing Investment Corporation and a Federal Housing Trust Fund to construct needed rental units In addition special programs are suggested to provide housing help to elderly people single parent families and the homeless Author note David C Schwartz is Professor of Political Science at Rutgers University and a member of the New Jersey General

Assembly Richard C Ferlauto is a community organizer and legislative analyst who concentrates on housing and community economic development issues Daniel N Hoffman is a consultant on housing and urban economic development with The Atlantic Group in New Jersey Race, Poverty, and American Cities John Charles Boger, Judith Welch Wegner, 1996 Precise connections between race poverty and the condition of America s cities are drawn in this collection of seventeen essays Policymakers and scholars from a variety of disciplines analyze the plight of the urban poor since the riots of the 1960s an

Housing America Emily Tumpson Molina, 2017-03-16 In an effort to explain why housing remains among the United States most enduring social problems Housing America explores five of the U S s most fundamental recurrent issues in housing its population affordability of housing homelessness segregation and discrimination in the housing market homeownership and home financing and planning It describes these issues in detail why they should be considered problems the history and fundamental social debates surrounding them and the past current and possible policy solutions to address them While this book focuses on the major problems we face as a society in housing our population it is also about the choices we make about what is valued in our society in our attempts to solve them Housing America is appropriate for courses in urban studies urban planning and housing policy The New Housing Shortage Graham Hallett, 2021-06-29 Originally published in 1993 this book is a detailed comparative examination of the housing issue by housing experts looking at the USA UK Germany the Netherlands and France The volume offers an excellent blend of critical analysis and practical policy recommendations including a better targeting of tax concessions a move back to social housing more diverse than in the past and measures for reducing homelessness Perennial issues which remain as pertinent today as when the book was first published are also discussed homelessness housing affordability for people on low incomes changes in housing markets
