Locked in Place Vivek Chibber,2011-06-27 Why were some countries able to build developmental states in the decades after World War II while others were not Through a richly detailed examination of India s experience Locked in Place argues that the critical factor was the reaction of domestic capitalists to the state building project During the 1950s and 1960s India launched an extremely ambitious and highly regarded program of state led development But it soon became clear that the Indian state lacked the institutional capacity to carry out rapid industrialization Drawing on newly available archival sources Vivek Chibber mounts a forceful challenge to conventional arguments by showing that the insufficient state capacity stemmed mainly from Indian industrialists massive campaign in the years after Independence against a strong developmental state Chibber contrasts India s experience with the success of a similar program of state building in South Korea where political elites managed to harness domestic
