*A Prologue to the Social Sciences
by David Silverman*

Reading Castaneda

Dr. Wayne W. Dyer

Reading Castaneda:

Reading Castaneda (Routledge Revivals) David Silverman, 2019-10-25 Carlos Castaneda's accounts of his meeting with the Yaqui Indian magician Don Juan are well known to sociologists both in Britain and in America. Using material largely from Castaneda's The Teachings of Don Juan, David Silverman here seeks to introduce the student of Sociology to some of the central epistemological concerns of social science. First published in 1975, the title assumes no previous knowledge of Castaneda but instead uses his work as a springboard to wider issues in particular making sense of our reality and understanding each other by using language and communication. This is an interesting reissue which will be of particular value to students of the sociology of language and communication as well as Communication Studies more generally.

Misanthropology Sean M. Rafferty, 2022-10-13 Misanthropology: Science, Pseudoscience and the Study of Humanity introduces students to key concepts in critical thinking across the four core branches of anthropology: cultural, linguistic, biological, and archaeological. It combines a critical analysis of anthropology as a field with current concepts in scientific skepticism. By deconstructing a range of global case studies in which anthropological research runs aground, the book teaches students to distinguish between legitimate science and pseudoscience. It covers key concepts in critical thinking and rigorous research such as cognitive biases and logical fallacies, data collection and consensus, probabilistic thinking as well as political, nationalist, racist biases. Students learn not only how to apply these concepts to anthropological research and fieldwork but also to their consumption of everyday information. This book will appeal to anthropology students and will be particularly useful for instructors of introductory anthropology courses as well as instructors of courses across the humanities and social sciences focused on inculcating critical thinking skills.

Fantasies of the Master Race Ward Churchill, 1998 Chosen an Outstanding Book on the Subject of Human Rights in the United States by the Gustavus Myers Center for the Study of Human Rights In this volume of incisive essays Ward Churchill looks at representations of American Indians in literature and film delineating a history of cultural propaganda that has served to support the continued colonization of Native America During each phase of the genocide of American Indians the media has played a critical role in creating easily digestible stereotypes of Indians for popular consumption Literature about Indians was first written and published in order to provoke and sanctify warfare against them Later the focus changed to enlisting public support for civilizing the savages stripping them of their culture and assimilating them into the dominant society Now in the final stages of cultural genocide it is the appropriation and stereotyping of Native culture that establishes control over knowledge and truth The primary means by which this is accomplished is through the powerful publishing and film industries Whether they are the tragically doomed noble savages walking into the sunset of Dances With Wolves or Carlos Castaneda's Don Juan the exotic mythical Indians constitute no threat to the established order Literature and art crafted by the dominant culture are an insidious political force disinforming people who might otherwise develop a clearer understanding of indigenous struggles for justice and freedom This book is offered to counter that deception and to move people to take action on issues confronting American Indians today

The Metaphysics of Relations Anna Marmodoro,David Yates,2016 This volume presents thirteen original essays which explore both traditional and contemporary aspects of the metaphysics of relations It is uncontroversial that there are true relational predications Abelard loves Eloise Simmias is taller than Socrates smoking causes cancer and so forth More controversial is whether any true relational predications have irreducibly relational truthmakers Do any of the statements above involve their subjects jointly instantiating polyadic properties or can we explain their truths solely in terms of monadic non relational properties of the relata According to a tradition dating back to Plato and Aristotle and continued by medieval philosophers polyadic properties are metaphysically dubious In non symmetric relations such as the amatory relation a property would have to inhere in two things at once lover and beloved but characterise each differently and this puzzled the ancients More recent work on non symmetric relations highlights difficulties with their directionality Such problems offer clear motivation for attempting to reduce relations to monadic properties By contrast ontic structural realists hold that the nature of physical reality is exhausted by the relational structure expressed in the equations of fundamental physics On this view there must be some irreducible relations for its fundamental ontology is purely relational The Metaphysics of Relations draws together the work of a team of leading metaphysicians to address topics as diverse as ancient and medieval reasons for scepticism about polyadic properties recent attempts to reduce causal and spatiotemporal relations recent work on the directionality of relational properties powers ontologies and their associated problems whether the most promising interpretations of quantum mechanics posit a fundamentally relational world and whether the very idea of such a world is coherent From those who question whether there are relational properties at all to those who hold they are a fundamental part of reality this book covers a broad spectrum of positions on the nature and ontological status of relations from antiquity to the present day
