The Silk Roads

The silk roads include the land silk routes and maritime silk routes. The silk road (the land silk road) was a vast network of trade routes that spanned the entire continent of Asia from China's Chang'an, connecting parts of north Africa and the Mediterranean sea area.

The maritime silk road spreads outward from the South China Sea, with several branches connecting North Korea, Japan, Ryukyu, and other countries in today's Indochina Peninsula, Southeast Asian coastal islands, South Asia, Central and Western Asia, North Africa, and Europe.
