Most Hallowed Ground Rodney S. Anderson, 1992 The Vietnam War in American Memory Christian Goodwillie, Jane F. Crosthwaite, 2009

From the very beginning in the 1770s singing was an important part of the worship services of the Shakers formally known as the United Society of Believers in Christ's Second Appearing. Yet until the early nineteenth century nearly all Shaker songs were wordless expressed in unknown tongues or as enthusiastic vocalizations. Only when Shaker missionaries moved west into Ohio and Kentucky did they begin composing hymn texts chiefly as a means of conveying the sect's unconventional religious ideas to new converts. In 1812-13 the Shakers published their first hymnal. This venture titled Millennial Praises included the texts without music for one hundred and forty hymns and elucidated the radical and feminist theology of the Shakers neatly distilled in verse. This scholarly edition of the hymnal joins the texts to original Shaker tunes for the first time. One hundred and twenty-six of the tunes preserved in the Society's manuscript hymnals have been transcribed from Shaker musical notation into modern standard notation thus opening this important religious and folk repertoire to modern scholars. Many texts are presented with a wide range of variant tunes from Shaker communities in New England, New York, Ohio, and Kentucky. Introductory essays by volume editors Christian Goodwillie and Jane F. Crosthwaite place Millennial Praises in the context of Shaker history and offer a thorough explication of the Society's theology. They track the use of the hymnal from the point of publication up to the present day beginning with the use of the hymns by both Shaker missionaries and anti-Shaker apostates and ending with the current use of the hymns by the last remaining Shaker family at Sabbathday Lake, Maine. The volume includes a CD of historical recordings of six Shaker songs by Brother Ricardo Belden, the last member of the Society at Hancock Shaker Village.

My Hallowed Ground chronicles the exciting experiences of a flight surgeon spanning the years 1962-2010. The stories are told in a series of anecdotes embellished with historical references, personal insight, and at times emotion, the high and lows. The flight surgeon takes the reader into the cockpit of a jet fighter during combat missions in the Vietnam War, to Hanoi, and the Philippines when American POWs were released by North Vietnam, to Wake Island at the extrication of Vietnamese refugees, and to Bangladesh on a humanitarian mission. Rayman also describes his experiences with the space program, explaining the medical aspects of space flight and the effects of weightlessness on astronauts. My Hallowed Ground would be of interest to medical professionals and the military but also to the general public because it deals in part with relatively recent historical events. By sheer chance of circumstance the author was there. About the Author: Russell B. Rayman, M.D., MPH, DAvMed graduated from the University of Michigan School of Medicine in 1961. Following a one-year internship, he volunteered to go on active duty with USAF, completing his aerospace medicine residency in 1972. His assignments took him to the Philippines, Thailand, the Netherlands, and the UK, as well as to several stateside bases. He retired from USAF in 1989 and was contracted by Lockheed Martin to NASA where he was involved with the space program In 1992 he left Lockheed Martin to serve as Executive Director of the Aerospace Medical Association retiring in 2010 He is currently widowed He and his wife had three boys Joseph a medical research scientist David USAF pilot and Ariel an attorney He currently lives in Alexandria Virginia and volunteers in a free clinic

Moore,2025-04-01 An innovative and much needed critical work on music and memorialization in relation to AIDS 9 11 and anti Black violence in America Music has long served as a powerful medium for communal mourning and remembrance in times of crisis Audible Loss examines musical responses to three major crises in US society at the turn of the twenty first century the AIDS epidemic the terrorist attacks of September 11 2001 and the ongoing conditions of anti Black violence Analyzing a range of works written to commemorate these losses Andrea Zarafshon Moore explores how contemporary classical music aka new music frames and narrates these crises gives voice to grief imagines other possibilities and makes loss audible These crises are read alongside one another to reveal the ways they are mutually imbricated while also recognizing the sheer commemorative dominance of 9 11 in this century Attending to broader debates and discourses through which commemoration is always filtered and the ways interpretive consensus has been sought and articulated in both musical and other memorial forms Moore probes the conventional claims of commemoration particularly those for the necessity of remembrance to healing and the prevention of future crises Audible Loss concludes by reflecting on the limits of existing commemorative forms and the possibility even necessity of new ones Taking the COVID 19 pandemic as a case study it proposes that while memorials of all kinds may provide outlets for collective remembrance and even mourning their power to forge a sense of collectivity is diminished as public discourse grows more fragmented Deeply informed yet highly approachable Audible Loss is a major contribution to the fields of music and memory studies and essential reading for anyone interested in memory culture in the United States today American Military Cemeteries, 2d ed. Dean W.
