Rewriting the Return to Africa Anne M. François, 2011-08-16 Rewriting The Return to Africa Voices of Francophone Caribbean Women Writers examines the ways Guadeloupean women writers Maryse Condé Simone Schwarz Bart and Myriam Warner Viera demystify the theme of the return to Africa as opposed to the masculinist version by Négritude male writers from the 1930s to 1960s Négritude a cultural and literary movement drew much of its strength from the idea of a mythical or cultural reconnection with the African past allegorized as a mother figure In contrast these women writers of the post colonial era who are to large extent heirs of Négritude differ sharply from their male counterparts in their representation of Africa In their novels the continent is not represented as a propitious mother figure but a disappointing father figure This study argues that these women writers subversion of the metaphorical figure of Africa and its transformation is tied to their gender The women novelists are indeed critical of a female allegorization of the land that is reminiscent of a colonial or nationalist project and a simplistic representation of motherhood that does not reflect the complexities of the Diaspora's relation to origins and identity Unlike the primary male writers of the Négritude movement they carefully gendered the notion of return by choosing female protagonists who made their way back to the Motherland in search of identity I argue that writing is a more suitable space for the female subject seeking identity because it allows her to have a voice and become subject rather than object as that was the case with the Négritude writers The women writers shattering of the image of Mother Africa and subsequently that of Father Africa highlights the complex relationship between Africa and the Diaspora from a female point of view It shifts the identity quest of the characters towards the Caribbean which emerges as the real problematic mother a multi faceted fragmented figure that reflects the constitutive clash that occurred in the archipelago between Europe Africa and the Americas where the issues of race gender class culture ethnicity history and language are very complex

Yeobright vehemently And this very day I had intended to arrange a meeting between you But you give me no peace you try to thwart my wishes in everything I hate the thought of any son of mine marrying badly I wish I had never lived to see this it is too much for me it is more than I thought She turned to the window Her breath was coming quickly and her lips were pale parted and trembling Mother said Clym whatever you do you will always be dear to me that you know But one thing I have a right to say which is that at my age I am old enough to know what is best for me Mrs Yeobright remained for some time silent and shaken as if she could say no more Then she replied Best Is it best for you to injure your prospects for such a voluptuous idle woman as that Don t you see that by the very fact of your choosing her you prove that you do not know what is best for you You give up your whole thought you set your whole soul to please a woman I do And that woman is you How can you treat me so flippantly said his mother turning again to him with a tearful look You are unnatural Clym and I did not expect it 1 Very likely said he cheerlessly You did not know

The Good News of the Return of the King Michael T. Jahosky,2020-09-15 Although many people today reject Christianity for intellectual reasons greater numbers of people are rejecting Christianity because it does not engage their imagination Christians must not only demonstrate that the Christian worldview is true but that it is also good beautiful and relevant The Good News of the Return of the King The Gospel in Middle earth is a book that endeavors to show the truth goodness and beauty of Jesus Christ the gospel and the biblical metanarrative by engaging the imagination through J R R Tolkien s The Lord of the Rings as well as The Hobbit and The Silmarillion In this book I propose that J R R Tolkien s The

Exile and Return in African and Caribbean Literature Patoimbasba Nikiema, 2025-08-26 Exile is often perceived as an irreversible rupture a state of loss and estrangement Yet in African and Caribbean literature exile and return form a dynamic interplay that reshapes personal collective and national identities This book challenges traditional notions of exile as suffering and return as simple reconnection with homeland and loved ones arguing that in many instances exile fosters deep introspection and transformation while return serves as active engagement with the homeland's sociopolitical and cultural realities Through close readings of works by transnational writers namely Khadi Hane Malika Mokeddem Dany Laferrière and Alain Mabankou this study explores how exile and return create new forms of belonging political consciousness and cultural renewal It gives voice to exiles navigating the displacement alienation and contradictions of the return At a time when migration remains a polarizing issue in political discourses across Europe and the United States this book reconsiders exile beyond narrative despair revealing its potential as a space of reinvention By bridging exilic imagination and homeland realities this book offers a fresh perspective on how African and Caribbean writers envision the return as an Afrotopian project a participative endeavor that rethinks the future of Africa and the Caribbean as a space of possibilities
