Transforming the Gendered Organisation of Labour and Leisure Yubin Huang, 2020-08-28 This book explores how the labour and leisure lives of people in contemporary rural China have been structured and transformed discussing the changing dynamics of power relations both between and within genders and in local village and family household and remote the state and market contexts It combines perspectives from sociology gender studies social history and demography to investigate the changes and continuities in the lives of women and men in Lianhe a rural village in central China examining the period from 1926 to 2013 through the lens of labour and leisure Employing methods from the field of ethnography the research focuses on the life stories of three generations including 57 women in Lianhe The book develops a double comparison analytical framework to compare the organisation of labour and leisure in the three respective generations proceeding on the one hand diachronically along the historical time that is the pre collective era collective era and reform era and synchronically along the women's life stages on the other. In so doing the book links women's shifting role in changing family household forms with broader socio-economic, political, demographic and cultural changes. Moreover, it employs a holistic perspective to reflect changing patterns in women's labour and leisure by disrupting the remunerated/unremunerated home labour within/outside household and labour/leisure dichotomies and exploring the interrelations between them. Based on this, the book then identifies the determinants of rural women's labour and leisure and reveals the women's experiences of their changing identities, particularly concerning their relationships with their parents-in-law, sisters-in-law, husbands and children. Particularly highlighting the interdependence and inequality among women, it also reveals their own perception of their identities and relationships and their understanding of husband-wife fairness and gender equality. Lastly, it demonstrates that the prevalent androcentrism in the remote world does not match the increasing husband-wife fairness in the local world and argues that this mismatch has caused the complex and paradoxical experiences and subjectivities of these women. Given its scope, the book is of interest to scholars, students and researchers in the fields of sociology, anthropology, gender and development, as well as a general audience looking to explore contemporary rural China.

In doing so, this volume presents theories and methods for understanding space and gender as they relate to the development of cities, urban space and individual building types such as housing, work spaces or commercial spaces in both the creation of and resistance to social transformations and modern global capitalism. The book contains a diverse range of case studies from the US, Europe, the UK and Asian countries such as China and India, which bring together a multiplicity of approaches to a continuing and common issue and reinforces the need for alternatives to the existing theoretical canon. Gender and Employment in Rural China Jing Song, 2017-04-21 With China's rapid advancements in urbanization and industrialization, there has been significant labor movement away from agriculture in the rural regions. Tiger Girls Minglu Chen,2012-03-29 The existing scholarship on women in China suggests that gender inequality still exists against the background of the country s reform and opening in recent years However the situation of women in enterprise ownership and leadership seems to indicate that despite such notions of disadvantage amongst women some of them are playing a more active and significant role in China's economic development. Based on a series of interviews with female enterprise owners, wives of enterprise owners and women managers conducted in diverse locations in three different provinces of China, Tiger Girls examines the deeper realities of women entrepreneurs in China and by extension the role of leading women in the workforce. By analyzing information on these women's personal experiences, careers and families, this book investigates their status at work and at home as well as their connections with local politics. The research results suggest that although traces of gender inequality can still be found in these women's lives, they appear to be actively engaged in the business establishment and operation and gradually casting off the leash of domestic responsibilities. This book will be of interest to students and scholars of Chinese Studies, Chinese Business, Chinese Economics and Asian Studies. Minglu Chen is ARC Postdoctoral Fellow in the Department of Government and International Relations at Sydney University, Australia.
