Storming the Gates of Paradise Rebecca Solnit, 2007-06-18 Rebecca Solnit has made a vocation of journeying into difficult territory and reporting back as an environmentalist antiglobalization activist and public intellectual Storming the Gates of Paradise an anthology of her essential essays from the past ten years takes the reader from the Pyrenees to the U S Mexican border from San Francisco to London from open sky to the deepest mines and from the antislavery struggles of two hundred years ago to today's street protests The nearly forty essays collected here comprise a unique guidebook to the American landscape after the millennium not just the deserts skies gardens and wilderness areas that have long made up Solnit's subject matter but the social landscape of democracy and repression of borders ruins and protests She ventures into territories as dark as prison and as sublime as a broad vista revealing beauty in the harshest landscape and political struggle in the most apparently serene view Her introduction sets the tone and the book's overarching themes as she describes Thoreau leaving the jail cell where he had been confined for refusing to pay war taxes and proceeding directly to his favorite huckleberry patch In this way she links pleasure to politics brilliantly demonstrating that the path to paradise has often run through prison These startling insights on current affairs politics culture and history always expressed in Solnit's pellucid and graceful prose constantly revise our views of the otherwise ordinary and familiar Illustrated throughout Storming the Gates of Paradise represents recent developments in Solnit's thinking and offers the reader a panoramic world view enriched by her characteristically provocative inspiring and hopeful observations

Trading Gazes Susan Bernardin, 2003

The story of westering Americans in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries has been told most notably through photographs of American Indians Unlike this vast archive produced primarily by male photographers which depicted American Indians as either vanishing or domesticated the lesser known images by the women featured in Trading Gazes provide new ways of seeing the intersecting histories of colonial expansion and indigenous resistance Four unconventional women Jane Gay who documented land allotment to the Nez Perces Kate Cory an artist who lived for years in a Hopi community Grace Nicholson who purchased cultural items from the Karuk and other northern California tribes and Mary Schaffer who traveled among the Stoney and Métis of Alberta Canada used cameras to document their cross cultural encounters Trading Gazes reconstructs the rich biographical and historical contexts explaining these women's presence in different Native communities of the North American West Their photographs not only record the unprecedented opportunities available for Euro American women eager to shed gender restrictions but also reveal how women's newfound mobility depended on the increasing restrictions placed on Native Americans in this era. By tracing the complex often unexpected relationships forged between these women, their cameras and the Native subjects of their photographs, Trading Gazes offers a new focus for recovering women's histories in the West while bringing attention to the complicated legacies of these images for Native and non-Native viewers.
