Records and Texts Relating to the General Discussions of the Conference, 1924 Uniformity of Transport Law through International Regimes Olena Bokareva, 2019 Uniformity of Transport Law through International Regimes addresses the problem of uniformity of transport law and the potential solutions at international and EU levels It concerns transport conventions and other instruments dealing mainly with carriage of goods by sea and multimodal transport as well as examining the Rotterdam Rules as one of the solutions towards uniformity in carriage of goods law The discussion on international uniformity in transport law is complemented by an examination of regional harmonization in the context of EU law making and jurisprudence in the field of international transport The comparison between international and regional regimes reveals the complexities in application and interpretation of the certain transport conventions which is detrimental to achieving uniformity

World Forests, Markets and Policies Matti Palo,J. Uusivuori,G. Mery,2001-12-31 This book offers information and insights into the potential of market and policy instruments in improving the state of the world s forests It advocates the use of the concept of optimal mix of markets and policies as an approach to view the appropriate and operational roles of market and government in dealing with forestry issues It does not offer a list of policy recommendations to be used as a general tool to combat the threats facing the world s forests Obviously the optimal mix of markets and policies must depend on the varying national and local conditions and more specifically on the level of development The contents of this volume are organized in five Parts Part I Editorial Perspectives briefly reviews the outline of the book and analyses the balanced use of markets and policies to support world forests towards sustainable forest management Part II reviews changes and trends in society and environment outside the forest sector After all the evolution of forestry and forest industries is more dependent on these external changes than on changes internal to the sector Two important aspects that may strongly affect the future of the forest sector are covered the potential of wood biomass in replacing oil and the global freshwater outlook Part III focuses on the importance of forests and is primarily aimed at those outside the forest sector Current innovations in information technology and the fast removal of government regulations have enabled forest industry corporations to invest on a larger scale in optimal locations worldwide The rapid expansion of forest plantations in the South is a response not only to globalization but also to the expanding conservation pressures in the North Part IV is the global forum that introduces a few topical forest sector issues affecting the world as a whole However these tend to be very complex and can rarely be adequately covered from a single perspective Therefore discussants were invited to bring up additional points of view Forests have great potential in the control of climate change This is analyzed through both the increased use of wood for energy and the possible forestry investments by Northern nations in the South to cope with the requirements of the Kyoto Protocol The interlinkages of forests and water are also highlighted Part V is entitled Regional Forum Its purpose is to analyze globally relevant continental issues Interregional studies are followed by articles focusing on Latin America Africa Asia and the Pacific North America Europe and the Russian Federation The role of the G8 economic powers in the development of the world s forests is studied from the days of imperialism to the current Action Programme on Forests and the implementation of the programme is followed up A number of comparative analyses of countries are presented The impacts of globalization on the forest sector in the Russian Far East and reforms in support of sustainable forest management in Russia are the two final themes of the book

The Turkish Straits Treaties And Conventions Zeynep Yücel,2023-05-23 The Turkish Straits are one of the most significant waterways in the world The straits serve as a link between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean connecting Europe and Asia The Straits have been a crucial passage for trade and commerce for centuries However their strategic location also makes them a potential chokepoint in times of war or conflict The legal and political status of the Turkish Straits has been a subject of concern for many countries especially those that rely on these waterways for their trade and security In an attempt to regulate the legal and political status of the Turkish Straits which has been a topic of discussion and debate for many years international treaties and agreements have been used to establish an agreed regime among states The aim of this book is to provide an overview of the legal and political status of the Turkish Straits The book analyzes the various international treaties and conventions that regulate the use of the straits and their implications for the parties involved
