Self-Regulation and Ego Control Edward R. Hirt, Joshua John Clarkson, Lile Jia, 2016-08-08 Self Regulation and Ego Control examines the physiological effects of depletion the effects of psychological variables in self control depletion effects the role of motivational and goal states on self control depletion effects and a number of cognitive perspectives on self control exertion This insightful book begins with an introduction of self control theories ego depletion phenomena and experimental examples of research in self control and concludes by delineating more inclusive and comprehensive models of self regulation that can account for the full spectrum of findings from current research In recent years researchers have had difficulty identifying the underlying resources responsible for depletion effects Moreover further research has identified several psychological and motivational factors that can ameliorate depletion effects These findings have led many to question assumptions of the dominant strength model and suggest that capacity limitations alone cannot account for the observed effects of depletion Self Regulation and Ego Control facilitates discourse across researchers from different ideological camps and advances more integrated views of self regulation based on this research Covers the neuropsychological evidence for depletion effects highlighting the roles of reward valuation and control in self regulation Reviews the roles of willpower expectancies of mental energy change and individual differences in the modulation of self control exertion Highlights the effects of various states such as positive mood power implementation intentions mindfulness and social rejection as moderators of depletion Provides clarification of the distinctions between self control in the context of goal directed behavior versus related terms like self regulation executive control and inhibition Details the overlap between mental and physical depletion and the potential interplay and substitutability of resources Challenges the view that depletion reflects capacity limitations and includes newer models that take a more motivational account of resource allocation Facilitates discourse across researchers from different ideological camps within the field Informs and enriches future research and advances more integrated views of self regulation

Djuna Barnes' Consuming Fictions Diane Warren, 2017-11-28 Djuna Barnes 1892-1982 was a pioneering female journalist experimental novelist playwright and poet whose influence on literary modernism was profound and whose writings anticipated many of the preoccupations of poststructuralist and feminist thought In her new book the author argues that Barnes' writings made significant contributions to gender and aesthetic debates in their immediate early twentieth century context and that they continue to contribute to present day debates on identity In particular Warren traces the works' close engagement with the effects of cultural boundaries on the individual showing how the journalism Ryder Ladies Almanack and the early chapters of Nightwood energetically and playfully subvert such boundaries In this reading Nightwood is contextualised as a pivotal text which poses questions about the limits of subversion thereby positioning The Antiphon 1958 as an analysis of why such boundaries are sometimes necessary Djuna Barnes Consuming Fictions shows that from the irreverent and carnivalesque iconoclasm of Barnes' early works to the bleak assessment that conflict lies at the root of culture seen from the close of Nightwood Barnes' oeuvre offers a profound analysis of the relationship between culture the individual and textual expression
