Institutions to Community-based Social Services in Central and Eastern Europe and the Former Soviet Union David Tobis, 2000 One of the most harmful costly and intractable legacies of the command economies of Central and Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union is the reliance on residential institutions for the care of children the elderly and the people with disabilities As a result there are almost no community based alternatives to care for large and growing numbers of vulnerable individuals Other industrial nations have experienced similar periods of economic and social upheaval and also relied on residential institutions to care for vulnerable and marginalized groups. However, most of these nations have switched from residential care to community-based social services. The question for the countries of Central and Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union is how they can make the same transition. Moving from Residential Institutions to Community-Based Social Services in Central and Eastern Europe and the Former Soviet Union examines the use of residential institutions for vulnerable groups past and present and proposes strategies for the future. The study focuses on five countries: Albania, Armenia, Latvia, Lithuania, and Romania, where the World Bank is helping develop community-based social services to reduce the reliance on residential institutions.

Disability and Rehabilitation in Rural Jamaica Ronnie Linda Leavitt, 1992

Although negative conditions exist, it appears that disabled children are not particularly stigmatized at the household level. Nevertheless, societal stigmatization and apathy do exist. As a result, disabled children are not being prepared to fully integrate into Jamaican society. 2 There is a range of variation of beliefs and behaviors with regard to disability and rehabilitation. The concept of intracultural diversity is supported. 3 This population has adapted their cultural belief systems and actual behaviors to match their material realities. That is, it would appear that people who have a disability and their caretakers have demonstrated contextual accommodation. 4 Community-based rehabilitation programs based on the primary health care and community participation principles enumerated by the WHO are theoretically sound and practically attainable in Jamaica.
