Searching For Unmediated Truth:

Searching for Unmediated Truth Gregg Hoffmann, 2005-11 Veteran reporter Garrett Hartmann considers journalism a calling and despises the fact that he has become part of a media industry manic on infotainment commercialism spin and hype He is also gone through a bitter divorce and lost his dearest friend and mentor Something is missing but Garrett isn't quite sure what or how to find it In many ways his plight is typical of modern man living in a mediated world and feeling detached from the environment other living things loved ones and even himself Garrett craves something real After hearing about the Tasmanian tiger the strange animal that has officially been extinct for decades Garrett travels to Tasmania in search of not only the tiger but the unmediated truth But the Tasmanian wilderness and corrupt men with their own agendas stand in his way Will Garrett find his truth or does fate have other plans for him Medialogies David R. Castillo, William Egginton, 2017-01-01 We are living in a time of inflationary media While technological change has periodically altered and advanced the ways humans process and transmit knowledge for the last 100 years the media with which we produce transmit and record ideas have multiplied in kind speed and power Saturation in media is provoking a crisis in how we perceive and understand reality Media become inflationary when the scope of their representation of the world outgrows the confines of their culture's prior grasp of reality We call the resulting concept of reality that emerges the culture's medialogy Medialogies offers a highly innovative approach to the contemporary construction of reality in cultural political and economic domains Castillo and Egginton both luminary scholars combine a very accessible style with profound theoretical analysis relying not only on works of philosophy and political theory but also on novels Hollywood films and mass media phenomena The book invites us to reconsider the way reality is constructed and how truth sovereignty agency and authority are understood from the everyday philosophical and political points of view A powerful analysis of actuality with its roots in early modernity this work is crucial to understanding reality in the information age The Daimon and the Soul of the West Bernardo Kastrup, 2025-08-26 Your life isn't has never been and will never be about you Think Like an Archipelago Michael Wiedorn, 2018-01-25 A career spanning assessment of Glissant's work as a philosophical project With a career spanning more than fifty years as a writer scholar and public intellectual Édouard Glissant produced an astonishingly wide range of work including poems novels essays pamphlets and theater In Think Like an Archipelago Michael Wiedorn offers a fresh interpretation of Glissant's work as a cohesive and explicitly philosophical project paying particular attention to the last two decades of his career which have received much less attention in the English speaking world despite their remarkable productivity Focusing his study on the idea of paradox Wiedorn argues that it is fundamental to Caribbean culture and thought and at the heart of Glissant's philosophy The question of difference has long played a central role in the literary and philosophical traditions of the West however to think differently Glissant suggests focusing elsewhere on the post plantation societies of the Caribbean and the Americas more broadly For Glissant paradoxical lessons drawn from the natural and cultural realities of the Caribbean can point to new ways of thinking and being in the world in other words to the creation of what Glissant calls a new category of literature and in turn to the attainment of his utopian political vision Thinking through such paradoxes Wiedorn demonstrates can offer new perspectives on the old questions of totality alterity teleology and the potential of philosophy itself The book s use of the central concept of paradox is both original and convincing and allows Wiedorn to reframe many of the issues surrounding Glissant s thought in a new and illuminating way Celia Britton author of douard Glissant and Postcolonial Theory Strategies of Language and Resistance

In Search of the Classic Steven

Shankman,2010-11 The classical Steven Shankman argues should not be confused with a particular historical period of Western antiquity although it may owe its original articulation to the literary and philosophical explorations of ancient Greek authors Shankman s book searches for and attempts to formulate the shape of the continuing presence as embodied in particular literary works mainly from Western antiquity and the neoclassical and modern periods of what the author calls a classical understanding of literature For Shankman literature defined from a classical perspective is a coherent compelling and rationally defensible representation that resists being reduced either to the mere recording of material reality or to the bare exemplification of an abstract philosophical precept He derives his definition largely from his reading of Greek literature from Homer through Plato from the history of literary criticism and from the Greco Roman tradition in English American and French literature Shankman reveals unsuspected yet convincing connections among authors of such widely disparate times and places His idea of the classic that authorizes these connections is presented as normative thus making possible the evaluation of literary works and in turn forthright discussion of what constitutes the literary as distinct from other kinds of discourse Shankman s study runs counter to a strong tendency of contemporary criticism that argues precisely against any distinct category of the literary He offers a series of interpretations that cumulatively advance theoretical discussion by challenging scholars to rethink the critical paradigms of postmodernism At the center of the book is a discussion of the quintessentially classic Val ry poem Le Cimetière marin and the classic qualities it shares with Pindar s third Pythian ode from which Val ry derives the epigraph for his poem

Analytical Psychology in a Changing World: The search for self, identity and community Lucy Huskinson,Murray Stein,2014-08-13 How can we make sense of ourselves within a world of change In Analytical Psychology in a Changing World an international range of contributors examine some of the common pitfalls challenges and rewards that we encounter in our efforts to carve out identities of a personal or collective nature and question the extent to which analytical psychology as a school of thought and therapeutic approach must also adapt to meet our changing needs The contributors assess contemporary concerns about our sense of who we are and where we are going some in light of recent social and natural disasters and changes to our social climates others by revisiting existential concerns and philosophical responses to our human situation in order to assess their validity for today How we use our urban environments and its structures to make sense of our pathologies and shortcomings the relevance of images and the dynamic forms that underpin our experience of the world how analytical psychology can effectively manage issues and problems of cultural religious and existential identity these broad themes and others besides are vividly illustrated by striking case studies and unique personal insights that give real lucidity to the ideas and arguments presented Analytical Psychology in a Changing World will be essential reading for Jungian and post Jungian scholars and clinicians of depth psychology as well as sociologists philosophers and any reader with a critical interest in the important cultural ideas of our time Chapter 2 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a

Sandlin, Peter McLaren, 2010-09-28 Distinguished international scholars from a wide range of disciplines explore consumption and its relation to learning identity development and education This volume is unique within the literature of education in its examination of educational sites both formal and informal where learners and teachers are resisting consumerism and enacting a critical pedagogy of consumption Marxism and Feminism Shahrzad Mojab, 2015-03-12 Global events from economic crisis to social unrest and militarization disproportionately affect women Yet around the world it is also women who are leading the struggle against oppression and exploitation In light of renewed interest in Marxist theory among many women activists and academics Marxism and Feminism presents a contemporary and accessible Marxist feminist analysis on a host of issues It reassesses previous debates and seeks to answer pressing questions of how we should understand the relationship between patriarchy and capitalism and how we can envision a feminist project which emancipates both women and society With contributions from both renowned scholars and new voices Marxism and Feminism is set to become the foundational text for modern Marxist feminist thought

Noise and Spirit Anthony B. Pinn, 2003-11-01 Rap music is often seen as a Black secular response to pressing issues of our time Yet like spirituals the blues and gospel music rap has deep connections to African American religious traditions Noise and Spirit explores the diverse religious dimensions of rap stemming from Islam including the Nation of Islam and Five Percent Nation Rastafarianism and Humanism as well as Christianity The volume examines rap's dialogue with religious traditions from the ways in which Islamic rap music is used as a method of religious and political instruction to the uses of both the blues and Black women's rap for considering the distinction between God and the Devil The first section explores rap's association with more easily recognizable religious traditions and communities such as Christianity and Islam The next presents discussions of rap and important spiritual considerations including on the topic of death The final unit wrestles with ways to theologize about the relationship between the sacred and the profane in rap

Isak Dinesen and the Engendering of Narrative Susan Hardy Aiken, 1990-04-05 Although Isak Dinesen has been widely acclaimed as a popular writer her work has received little sustained critical attention In this revisionist study Susan Hardy Aiken takes up the complex relations of gender sexuality and representation in Dinesen's narratives Drawing on feminist psychoanalytic and post structuralist theories Aiken shows how the form and meaning of Dinesen's texts are affected by her doubled situations as a Dane who wrote in English a European who lived for many years in Africa and a woman who wrote under a male pseudonym within a male centered literary tradition In a series of readings that range across Dinesen's career Aiken demonstrates that Dinesen persistently asserted the inseparability of gender and the engendering of narrative She argues that Dinesen's texts anticipate in remarkable ways some of the most radical insights of contemporary literary theories particularly those of French feminist criticism Aiken also offers a major rereading of Out of Africa that both addresses its distinctiveness as a colonialist text and places it within Dinesen's larger oeuvre In Aiken's account Dinesen's work emerges as a compelling inquiry into sexual difference and the ways it informs culture subjectivity and the language that is their medium This important book will at last give Isak Dinesen's work the prominence it deserves in literary studies

What's Right with the Trinity? Hannah Bacon, 2016-02-11 The doctrine of the Trinity poses a series of problems for feminist theology At a basic level the androcentric nature of trinitarian language serves to promote the male as more fully in the image of God and as the archetype of humanity pushing women to the margins of personhood It is no surprise then that feminist scholarship on this doctrine has often focused on what's wrong with the Trinity setting out the problems raised by the use of traditional androcentric trinitarian language This book brings together a discussion of feminist theological methodology with a critical exploration of the doctrine of the Trinity Focussing on what's right with the Trinity as opposed to what's wrong with the Trinity it considers the usefulness of this doctrine for feminist theology today. It replaces a stress on trinitarian language with an emphasis on trinitarian thought exploring how we might effectively think rather than speak God in light of feminist concerns. In particular it asks how a trinitarian understanding of God might support and be supported by key values which underpin a feminist way of doing theology specifically values which underpin the methodological use of women's experience in feminist theology. The central argument is that thinking God as Trinity need not serve to reinforce patriarchal values and ideals but may in fact promote the subjectivity and personhood of women. The Oxford Handbook of Criminal Process Darryl K. Brown, Jenia Iontcheva Turner, Bettina Weisser, 2019-02-22 The Oxford Handbook of Criminal Process surveys the topics and issues in the field of criminal process including the laws institutions and practices of the criminal justice administration. The process begins with arrests or with crime investigation such as searches for evidence. It continues through trial or some alternative form of adjudication such as plea bargaining that may lead to conviction and punishment and it includes post conviction events such as appeals and various procedures for addressing miscarriages of justice. Across more than 40 chapters this Handbook provides a descriptive overview of the subject sufficient to serve as a durable reference source and more importantly to offer contemporary critical or analytical perspectives on those subjects by leading scholars in the field. Topics covered include history procedure investigation prosecution evidence adjudication and appeal. The Conversion of Imagination Matthew W. Maguire, 2006-03-31 Maguire uncovers a history of French thought that casts the imagination as a dominant faculty in our experience of the world. Original and thought provoking this book will interest a range of readers across intellectual history political theory literary and cultural studies and the history of religious thought. Cultural Histories of Ageing Margery Vibe Skagen, 2021-05-12 Drawing on sixteenth to twenty first century American British French German Polish Norwegian and Russian literature and philosophy this collection teases out culturally specific conceptions of old age as well as subjective constructions of late life identity and selfhood. The internationally known humanistic gerontologist Jan Baars the prominent historian of old age David Troyansky and the distinguished cultural historian and pioneer in the field of literature and science George Rousseau join a team of literary historians who trace out the interfaces between their chosen texts and the respective periods medical and gerontological knowledge. The chapters in depth analyses of major and less known works demonstrate the rich potential of fiction poetry and autobiographical writing in the construction of a cultural history of senescence. These literary examples not only bear witness to longue dure representations of old age and epochal transitions regarding cultural attitudes to the aged they also foreground the subjectivities that produced some of these representations and that continue to communicate with readers of other times and places. By casting a net over a variety of authors genres periods and languages the collection gives a broad sense of how literature is among the richest and most engaging sources for historicizing the ageing self. The Poetic Character of Human Activity Wendell John Coats Jr., Chor-yung Cheung, 2012-07-21 The Poetic Character of Human

Activity is a collection of essays by two Oakeshott scholars most of which explores the meaning of Oakeshott's pregnant phrase the poetic character of human activity by comparing and contrasting this idea with similar and opposing ones in particular those of the Taoist thinker Zhuangzi Chuang Tzu and his Western interpreter A C Graham Oakeshott's deep appreciation of the poetic and non instrumental character of human activity led him to develop an interest in the works of Zhuangzi and Confucius Comparison of shared themes between Oakeshott and these two Chinese thinkers facilitates appreciation of his elegant analytic style and his resort to use of metaphors and story telling when conveying some of his most profound insights The collection also contains essays contrasting Oakeshott's idea of the creative in human experience with views of among others Plato Leo Strauss and Eric Voegelin Oakeshott used the phrase the poetic character of human activity arguably the animating center of his entire thought to refer to the creative character of human experiential reality that is to the fact that the form the how and content the what of all human experience and activity arise simultaneously and fluidly and can be separated only at the expense of theoretical coherence and practical skill The various essays in this collection explore the meaning of this claim and its ramifications for the proper role of critical intellect in especially philosophy morality learning and governance There is also some brief contrast of Oakeshott with John Rawls Alasdair MacIntyre Charles Taylor and Quentin Skinner
