especially in the context of other plays performed at the time The verbal sparring between Sir Frederick and the Widow was a new departure for the stage and it worked brilliantly An immediate success it had followed much of the earlier traditions of theatre but had already begun to lay the foundations for what would become the comedy of manners It gave him an immediate entree to a world of literary rakes including Sir Charles Sedley John Wilmot the earl of Rochester and many of the roguish elements of the Court circle He seemed easy going and amiable and his nicknames seem to confirm this gentle George and easy Etheredge Whether this rich life of gaudy pleasures hindered his writing or not it would be another four years before his next play would be finished and performed In 1668 She Would If She Could a comedy full of action wit and spirit came to the stage Although it was also seen by others to be frivolous and immoral However the play does cement Etheredge's modern reputation as a powerful figure in English playwriting The play dropped the romantic verse element to concentrate on flirtation for flirtations own sake It was a radical departure Unfortunately it also flopped It is said due to bad acting but the sudden movement away from the normal structure of a play may equally be the reason Etheridge now departed on new adventures and between 1668 and 1671 Etheredge resided in Constantinople as the secretary of the English ambassador Sir Daniel Harvey Returning once more to English shores he wrote the prologue for the opening in 1671 of the new Dorset Garden Theatre In 1676 his last and wittiest comedy The Man of Mode or Sir Fopling Flutter was brought to the stage It was an immediate and over whelming success He was acclaimed A writer being the sum of his own experiences it was widely believed that the play's characters paint comic pictures of several of his well known contemporaries Sir Fopling Flutter himself being a portrait of Beau Hewit the reigning exquisite of the hour Dorimant a reference to John Wilmot the Earl of Rochester and Medley a portrait of Etheredge himself or fellow playwright and wit Sir Charles Sedley Even the drunkard shoemaker was a real character who made his fortune from being brought to public attention After this brilliant success Etheredge retired from literature and a few years later had lost much of his new fortune to gambling Etheredge was knighted in either 1679 or 1680 and went on to marry the wealthy widow Mary Sheppard Arnold In March 1685 he was appointed resident minister in the imperial German court at Regensburg After three and a half year's residence and the Glorious Revolution he left for Paris to join James II in exile He died in Paris probably in late 1691 although the date and cause of death are uncertain
