Mortuary Monuments and Burial Grounds of the Historic Period Harold Mytum, 2012-12-06 Burial grounds strike an immediate chord with all who visit them They are landscapes full of pathos and cultural associations which many find attractive though a minority feel are too morbid to deserve detailed attention This book is designed to offer a framework for studying historic burial ground monuments and contains a certain amount of information regarding below ground archaeology as some projects will involve the study of both Moreover from a research perspective above and below ground archaeology together can throw considerable light on the process of dying body disposal and commemoration that formed a continuum for those involved However the more easily accessible graveyard memorials can be used to study many aspects of past culture beyond that directly associated with death and they are the focus of the book Most people who become interested in historic graveyard memorials come to the subject

via the material itself Only rarely does a research question get posed and graveyard data seem like an appropriate arena for investigation This has the advantage that many researchers have some ideas about the data available but the disadvantage that they may not have clear questions to ask of it nor how to set their discoveries in a wider intellectual context with the first comprehensive study of Blake's reception of Swedenborgianism. At the time Blake took an interest in Emanuel Swedenborg, the mystical and spiritual writings of the theosophist had become a platform for radical and revolutionary politics as well as numerous heterodox practices among his followers in England. Rix focuses on Swedenborgianism as a concrete and identifiable sub culture from which a number of essential themes in Blake's works are reassessed. This book will appeal not only to Blake scholars but to anyone studying the radical and sub culture religious intellectual and cultural history of this period.

"The British School of Sculpture, c.1760-1832" Sarah Burnage, 2017-07-05. The British School of Sculpture c.1760-1832 represents the first edited collection exploring one of the most significant moments in British art history returning to centre stage a wide range of sculpture considered for the first time by some of the most important scholars in the field. Following a historical and historiographical introduction by the editors situating British sculpture in relation to key events and developments in the period and the broader scholarship on British art more generally in the period and beyond, the book contains nine wide ranging case studies that consider the place of antique and modern sculpture in British country houses in the period, monuments to heroes of commerce and the Napoleonic Wars, the key debates fought around ideal sculpture at the Royal Academy, the reception of British sculpture across Europe, the reception of Hindu sculpture deriving from India in Britain and the relationship of sculpture to emerging industrial markets both at home and abroad. Challenging characterisations of the period as neoclassical, the volume reveals British sculpture to be a much more eclectic and various field of endeavour both in service of the state and challenging it and open to sources ranging from the newly arrived Parthenon Frieze to contemporary print culture.

Portrait of a Patron Susan Jenkins, 2017-03-02. Once described as England's Apollo, James Brydges, first Duke of Chandos 1674-1744, was an outstanding patron of the arts during the first half of the eighteenth century. Having acquired great wealth and influence as Paymaster General of Queen Anne's forces abroad, Chandos commissioned work from leading artists, architects, poets and composers including Godfrey Kneller, William Talman, Sir John Vanbrugh, Sir James Thornhill, John Gay and George Frederick Handel. Despite his associations with such renowned figures Chandos soon gained a reputation for tasteless extravagance This reputation was not helped by the publication in 1731 of Alexander Pope s poem Of Taste which was widely regarded as a satire upon Chandos and Cannons the new house he was building near Edgware The poem destroyed Chandos s reputation as a patron of the arts and ensured that he was remembered as a man lacking in taste Yet as this book shows such a judgement is plainly unfair when the Duke s patronage is considered in more depth and understood within the artistic context of his age By investigating the patronage and collections of the Duke through an examination of documentary sources and contemporary accounts it is possible to paint a very different picture of the man Rather than the epitome of bad taste described by his enemies it is clear that Chandos was an enlightened patron who embraced new ideas and strove to establish a taste for the Palladian in England which was to define the Georgian era

Roman Strigillated Sarcophagi Janet Huskinson, 2015-11-05 This is the first full study of Roman strigillated sarcophagi which are the largest group of decorated marble sarcophagi to survive in the city of Rome Characterized by panels of carved fluting hence the description strigillated after the curved strigil used by Roman bathers to scrape off oil and limited figure scenes they were produced from the mid second to the early fifth century AD and thus cover a critical period in Rome from empire to early Christianity Roman Strigillated Sarcophagi focuses on their rich potential as an historical source for exploring the social and cultural life of the city in the later empire The first part of the volume examines aspects of their manufacture use and viewing emphasizing distinctive features The second part looks at the figured representations carved on the sarcophagi and at their social significance and creativity concentrating on how their various arrangements allowed viewers to develop their own interpretations The subjects represented by the figures and the flexibility with which they might be read provide invaluable insights into how Romans thought about life and death during these changing times The final part of the volume surveys how later societies responded to Roman strigillated sarcophagi From as early as the fifth century AD their distinctive decoration and allusions to the Roman past made them especially attractive for reuse in particular contemporary contexts notably for elite burials and the decoration of prominent buildings The motif of curved fluting was also adopted and adapted it decorated neo classical memorials to Captain Cook Napoleon s sister in law Christine Boyer and Penelope Boothby and its use continues into this century well over one and a half millennia since it first decorated Roman sarcophagi
