Seabed Mineral Resources and the Economic Interests of Developing Countries Danny M. Leipziger, James L. Mudge, 1976      Development of Hard Mineral Resources of the Deep Seabed United States. Congress. Interior and Insular Affairs, 1972      Development of Hard Mineral Resources of the Deep Seabed United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs. Subcommittee on Minerals, Materials, and Fuels, 1972      A Joint Venture Agreement for Seabed Mining G. Jaenicke, 2013-11-11 The Third United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea is preparing rules for the establishment of an international legal regime governing the exploration and exploitation of the resources of the international seabed The Draft Convention on the Law of the Sea Informal Text of 27 August 1980 which has so far been the result of the negotiations during the preceding sessions of the Conference provides for a so called parallel system under which an international Enterprise as well as national private or state owned companies will be granted access to the resources of the international seabed under the control of an International Seabed Authority The Draft Convention also envisages the conclusion of joint venture agreements between the international Enterprise and national companies or consortia and encourages such cooperation through granting various incentives Such joint ventures will probably play an important part in making the international Enterprise operative in the early years of its existence At the Conference concerns have been expressed whether and when the Enterprise as a newcomer would be in a position to start seabed mining and to compete effectively with the national companies The Draft Convention provides for a number of ways and means to enable the Enterprise to develop its technological and financial capabilities for deep sea mining as early as possible

Barney, Council on Environmental Quality (U.S.), 1980      The Economics of Deep-Sea Mining J.B. Donges, 2012-12-06 Manganese nodules lying on the ocean floor beyond national jurisdiction and containing such strategic minerals as cobalt copper manganese and nickel are currently considered to constitute the highest valued deep ocean mineral resource and regarded by many as the common heritage of mankind Not surprisingly the exploitation of minerals from the sea bed was one of the most controversial issues discussed at the Third United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea from 1973 to 1982 which led to the adoption of a new Convention on the Law of the Sea in Jamaica in December of 1982 However the still ongoing international debate on the Convention's regime to govern deep sea mining reveals that the central economic problems involved are far from being definitely settled In view of the importance of this issue the Kiel Institute of World Economics launched in 1980 a major research project on allocational and distributional aspects of the use of ocean resources A comprehensive analysis and evaluation of the new Law of the Sea Convention has already been published see Wilfried Prewé et al Die Neuordnung der Meere Eine ökonomische Kritik des neuen Seerechts Kieler Studien
