Searching For Paradise:

SEEKING PARADISE Mary Ali,2013-08 This is the story of Iman a story of a woman who grew up in the countryside in the troubles of 1970s Northern Ireland She goes to England to qualify as a dietitian in the 1980s Twelve years later her world is turned upside down She leaves a world of comfort and luxury and the cold English husband from whom she has slowly drifted away to become a Muslim to enter another world a world of dangers deception and lies A violent marriage robs her of her two beloved sons and takes them to the cruel selfish world of her ex in laws in Lahore Pakistan In deep grief she continues her professional life and marries again in Saudia Arabia and returns to England Only to see that also fall apart with the loss of her home in the beautiful Shropshire countryside She knows that one day she will pay the price for the suffering grief exhausting gruelling trips to Pakistan and failed attempts to get her children back When the grim reaper comes for me she told her best friend from Dublin a few months before the diagnosis came And when it came it was breast cancer How will Iman emerge from this Does she have a future Read this written from the heart story to find out     Searching for Paradise

LEVY,2013-06-29 For many years I have been interested in computer chess and have collected almost every learned paper and article on the subject that I could find My files are now quite large and a considerable amount of time effort and expense has been required to build up this collection I have often thought how difficult it must be for many computer chess enthusiasts to acquire copies of articles that they see referenced in some other work Unless one has access to a good reference library the task is almost impossible I therefore decided to try to make available in one volume as many as possible of the most interesting and important articles and papers ever written on the subject Such a selection is naturally somewhat subjective and I hope that I will not offend authors whose works have been excluded In particular I have decided to exclude any material which has appeared in the

Frey,2012-12-06 Ten years of intensive effort on computer chess have produced notable progress Although the background information and technical details that were written in 1975 for the first edition of this book are still valid in most essential points hardware and software refinements have had a major impact on the effectiveness of these ideas The current crop of chess machines are performing at unexpectedly high levels The approach epitomized by the series of programs developed by David Slate and Larry Atkin at Northwestern in the middle 1970s i e a sophisticated search algorithm using very little chess knowledge was expected to reach an asymptotic level of performance no higher than that of a class A player USCF rating between 1800 and 2000 This perspective was argued quite vigorously by Eliot Hearst in Chapter 8 of the first edition and was held at that time by many chess experts Subsequent events have clearly demonstrated that the asymptotic performance level for this type of program is at least as high as the master level USCF rating between 2200 and 2400 Current discussions now focus upon whether the earlier reservations were wrong in principle or simply underestimated the asymptote If there is a real barrier which will prevent this type of program from attaining a world championship level of performance it is not evident from the steady progress which has been observed during the last decade In Search of Egeria William Leonard Courtney,1911 A

The Legend of St. Brendan Jude S. Mackley,2008 The Legend of St Brendan is a study of two accounts of a voyage undertaken by Brendan a sixth century Irish saint The immense popularity of the Latin version encouraged many vernacular translations including a twelfth century Anglo Norman reworking of the narrative which excises much of the devotional material seen in the ninth century Navigatio Sancti Brendani abbas and changes the emphasis leaving a recognisably secular narrative The vernacular version focuses on marvellous imagery and the trials and tribulations of a long sea voyage Together the two versions demonstrate a movement away from hagiography towards adventure Studies of the two versions rarely discuss the elements of the fantastic Following a summary of authorship audiences and sources this comparative study adopts a structural approach to the two versions of the Brendan narrative It considers what the fantastic imagery achieves and addresses issues raised with respect to theological parallels     In Search of the Castaways Jules Verne,1873     A Search for an Infidel Jenkin Lloyd Jones,1901     *God-Man. ...
