Environmental Practice in the Human Services Bernard Neugeboren, 2013-01-11 Environmental Practice in the Human Services points to the need for the human services to return to their historic mission of environmental change It moves beyond the more general conceptual emphasis on person in environment toward the development of an environmental practice technology based on an intervention model which prescribes specific micro and macro roles and functions It may open the way to recapturing the conceptual breadth which characterized the first 40 years of social work as a professional and occupational entity The ecological perspective in social work has fostered an interest in the impact of social environments on service consumers

Environmental Practice in the Human Services tries to rectify the historical imbalance in the human services that has emphasized people changing methods giving secondary emphasis to environmental change. It instructs students preparing for practice in the human services as well as agency practitioners in the knowledge and skills necessary in environmental practice. Cases in environmental practice are used to illustrate how these skills are utilized in actual practice situations. The book's scope includes practice at the direct service administration planning and social policy levels; it integrates micro and macro practice and shows how these two levels of practice are interdependent. This enables human service practitioners to create and/or modify social environments to enhance the functioning of clients being served in human service programs. Topics covered include important skills in environmental practice including decisionmaking, negotiating, and leadership; community practice and resource coordination; social support; the impact of organizational environments on practice; environmental practice for the chronically disabled. Author Neugeboren's approach is unique in its in-depth focus on environmental practice, applying concepts of social environment to specific practice roles. This practice-specific content, which provides tools needed for environmental practice, is in contrast to existing texts on the social environment, which are very theoretical and not integrated with practice. He includes material from the field of social ecology, which has not been included in existing texts. It shows how practitioners and administrators, planners, and policymakers can facilitate and support each other's work. Reading Environmental Practice in the Human Services will enlighten students and practitioners with specific skills for impacting on different social environments to enhance client benefit. It tells how a direct service practitioner can determine which organizational environments are suitable for particular client needs in making agency referrals. It also provides administrators with information about designing, planning, and managing agencies with functional organizational environments which achieve effective services. Cataloging Policy and Support Office, 2009. Understanding Your Social Agency Armand Lauffer, 2011. Understanding Your Nonprofit Agency written by internationally renowned scholar Armand Lauffer will fill the growing need for the distinction between corporate business operations and nonprofit operations. The book will focus on how nonprofit agencies operate and not how they are managed. It has been assumed that both entities function similarly. Currently this assumption is increasingly seen as groundless; nonprofit and profit-driven organizations have different goals and function differently from each other. This text addresses the current trend to differentiate how nonprofits are distinct. Department of Health and Human Services United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Appropriations. Subcommittee on Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, Education, and Related Agencies, 1981. Measuring the Performance of Human Service Programs Lawrence L. Martin, Peter M. Kettner, 2010. Government and nongovernmental human service organizations are under increasing pressure to demonstrate that their programs work. As stakeholders demand more accountability, human service organizations are increasingly utilizing performance accountability and performance measurement as a way of demonstrating the efficiency quality and effectiveness of their programs Measuring the Performance of Human Service Programs Second Edition examines the reasons why performance measurement has become the major method of performance accountability today In this second edition of their classic work Martin Kettner explain in detail how to develop and utilize output quality and outcome performance measures in human service programs Special attention is given to the four types of outcome performance measures numeric counts standardized measures level of functioning LOF scales and client satisfaction

Understand Social Agency Armand Lauffer,1984-11 This revised and expanded Second Edition of the widely read Understanding Your Social Agency offers students and practitioners a simple yet comprehensive introduction to organizational theory and its meaning for social agencies Each of the first ten chapters is devoted to a particular perspective for understanding the agency The final chapter considers using each of the ten perspectives independently or in tandem to solve problems within or on behalf of the agency It will be a useful guide to solving problems of an organizational nature within an agency

Family Assessment Adele Holman,1983-06 A practical guide for human service workers and students which describes and shows techniques for use in assessing families The author reviews a conceptual basis of family assessment in chapters that focus on the family as a system the family and its environment and the family life cycle She goes on to describe such methods of assessment as the ecomap the genogram family sculpture and the use of observation and checklists Throughout the guide case examples are used to illustrate concepts and show the techniques in use A special feature of particular value is the self teaching exercises designed to give the reader practice in applying these ideas and methods A concluding chapter relates family assessment to treatment or intervention

Total Quality Management in Human Service Organizations Lawrence L. Martin,1993-09-10 Now that business government and other fields are embracing Total Quality Management TQM as their management philosophy TQM may also hold the solution for problems that exist in human services organizations today After a brief history of TQM the author discusses the philosophy of management quality as an organizational goal the challenges of determining an organization s customers and collecting and using customer quality data He also describes how to achieve quality improvement through teamwork and shows how to use brainstorming cause and effect diagrams check sheets and pareto analysis Among the other topics examined are contractor involvement training top management personnel training middle managers and staff and selecting an implementation strategy All the examples used in this volume are drawn from the fields of public administration gerontology public health and management of nonprofit organizations Total Quality Management in Human Service Organizations is a good backgrounder for human service administrators and organizations prior to undergoing a more detailed agency discussion of or training in TQM It is also of great value to students and faculty in social work administration programs who are interested in the basics of TQM Creating Small Scale Social Programs Barbara Schram,1997-10-14 Built around a single case study Creating New Agency Programs clearly illustrates how to effectively plan implement and evaluate a small scale social program Each step in the planning process is introduced and described in a way that allows the reader to vicariously participate in the evolution of the program Useful charts time lines and resource lists are included and can be easily referenced and utilized This book s emphasis on planning is important not only because it is a much used and generally under taught skill but because successful planning is the process that can turn the dreams of a community into concrete reality This book is geared toward designing programs to meet specific social needs and organizing the relevant and human resources to implement them The programs are specific detail and activity oriented but are designed to support long range goals which may be handed down by a parent organization or the community in general The author s strategy of using a case study serves as a creative learning tool that leads readers through each practical step toward successfully creating their own small scale social program Filling the void of literature on designing programs Creating New Agency Programs is ideal for professionals and students in a variety fields social work human services clinical counseling psychology drugs and alcohol psychology nursing and management who are faced with the task of planning designing and evaluating a program Langster V.
