Manet Manette (in Acq) Carol M. Armstrong, 2002 Manet a founding father of modernism is one of the towering figures of nineteenth century art In this absorbing book Carol Armstrong looks closely at Manet's works to uncover a novel and compelling view not only of the artist but also of modernity itself As she places his art within frameworks of color the feminine Other the Manette in Manet and consumerism Armstrong greatly expands and revises our understanding of this artist as a painter of modern life Surveying most of Manet's diverse output the book addresses along the way his methods of self presentation his exhibition strategies the relation of his etchings and paintings the significance of his relationships with the model Victorine Meurent and the painter Berthe Morisot the painterly construction of identity and gender difference and much more At the same time the book considers contemporary writings by Baudelaire Zola the Goncourts and others who dealt with issues relating to artistic identity and modernity painting the model and femininity Armstrong concludes that Manet's work demonstrates consistent preoccupations with defining and contradicting his own signature style of painting and with the gendering of costume color and the making of his art These preoccupations she shows suggest a new understanding of Manet's oeuvre Publisher's description emergence of the concept of synesthesia around 1900 This collection puts forward a more complex history of the relationship between art and music than has been described in earlier works including an intermixing of models and distinctions between approaches to them Individual essays from art history musicology and literature examine the growing influence of art upon music and vice versa in the works of Berlioz Courbet Manet Fantin Latour Rodin Debussy and the Pre Raphaelites among other artists

The World According to Colour James Fox,2021-10-07 Extraordinary An intellectual feast as well as a visual one Edmund de Waal author of The Hare with Amber Eyes The world comes to us in colour But colour lives as much in our imaginations as it does in our surroundings as this scintillating book reveals Each chapter immerses the reader in a single colour drawing together stories from the histories of art and humanity to illuminate the meanings it has been given over the eras and around the globe Showing how artists scientists writers philosophers explorers and inventors have both shaped and been shaped by these wonderfully myriad meanings James Fox reveals how through colour we can better understand their cultures as well as our own Each colour offers a fresh perspective on a different epoch and together they form a vivid exhilarating history of the world We have projected our hopes anxieties and obsessions onto colour for thousands of years Fox writes The history of colour therefore is also a history of humanity

Gender, Space, and the Gaze in Post-Haussmann Visual Culture Temma Balducci,2017-03-27 Charles Baudelaire's flâneur as described in his 1863 essay The Painter of Modern Life remains central to understandings of gender space and the gaze in late nineteenth century Paris despite misgivings by some scholars Baudelaire's privileged and leisurely figure at home on the boulevards underlies theorizations of bourgeois masculinity and by implication bourgeois femininity whereby men gaze and roam urban spaces unreservedly while women lacking the freedom to either gaze or roam are wedded to domesticity In challenging this tired paradigm and offering fresh ways to consider how gender space and the gaze were constructed this book attends to several neglected elements of visual and written culture the ubiquitous male beggar as the true denizen of the boulevard the abundant depictions of well to do women looking sometimes at men the popularity of windows and balconies as viewing perches and the overwhelming emphasis given by both male and female artists to domestic scenes The book's premise that gender space and the gaze have been too narrowly conceived by a scholarly embrace of Baudelaire's flâneur is supported across the cultural spectrum by period sources that include art criticism high and low visual culture newspapers novels prescriptive and travel literature architectural practices interior design trends and fashion journals

Twelve Views of Manet's Bar Bradford Collins,2021-01-12 Bradford Collins has assembled here a collection of twelve essays that demonstrates through the interpretation of a single work of art the abundance and complexity of methodological approaches now available to art historians Focusing on Manet's A Bar at the Folies Bergère each contributor applies to it a different methodology ranging from the more traditional to the newer including feminism Marxism Lacanian psychoanalysis and semiotics By demonstrating the ways that individual practitioners actually apply the various methodological insights that inform their research Twelve Views of Manet's Bar serves as an excellent introduction to critical methodology as well as a provocative overview for those already familiar with the current discourse of art history In the process of gaining new insight into Manet's work and into the discourse of methodology one discovers that it is not only the individual painting but art history itself that is under investigation An introduction by Richard Shiff sets the background with a brief history of Manet scholarship and suggestions as to why today's accounts have taken certain distinct directions The contributors selected to provide a broad and balanced range of methodological approaches include Carol Armstrong Albert Boime David Carrier Kermit Champa Bradford R Collins Michael Paul Driskel Jack Flam Tag Gronberg James D Herbert John House Steven Z Levine and Griselda Pollock

Consuming Painting Allison Deutsch, 2021-02-01 In Consuming Painting Allison Deutsch challenges the pervasive view that Impressionism was above all about visual experience Focusing on the language of food and consumption as they were used by such prominent critics as Baudelaire and Zola she writes new histories for familiar works by Manet Monet Caillebotte and Pissarro and creates fresh possibilities for experiencing and interpreting them Examining the culinary metaphors that the most influential critics used to express their attraction or disgust toward painting Deutsch rethinks French modern life painting in relation to the visceral reactions that these works evoked in their earliest publics Writers posed viewing as analogous to ingestion and used comparisons to food to describe the appearance of paint and the painter's process The food metaphors they chose were aligned with specific female types such as red meat for sexualized female flesh confections for fashionably made up women and hearty vegetables for agricultural laborers These culinary figures of speech Deutsch argues provide important insights into both the fabrication of the feminine and the construction of masculinity in nineteenth century France Consuming Painting exposes the social politics at stake in the deeply gendered metaphors of sense and sensation Original and convincing Consuming Painting upends traditional narratives of the sensory reception of modern painting This trailblazing book is essential reading for specialists in nineteenth century art and criticism gender studies and modernism

"Interior Portraiture and Masculine Identity in France, 1789-1914" Heather Belnap Jensen, 2017-07-05 Focusing specifically on portraiture as a genre this volume challenges scholarly assumptions that regard interior spaces as uniquely feminine Contributors analyze portraits of men in domestic and studio spaces in France during the long nineteenth century the preponderance of such portraits alone supports the book's premise that the alignment of men with public life is oversimplified and more myth than reality The volume offers analysis of works by a mix of artists from familiar names such as David Delacroix Courbet Manet Rodin and Matisse to less well known image makers including Dominique Doncre Constance Mayer Anders Zorn and Lucien Etienne Melingue The essays cover a range of media from paintings and prints to photographs and sculpture that allows exploration of the relation between masculinity and interiority across the visual culture of the period The home and other interior spaces emerge from these studies as rich and complex locations for both masculine self expression and artistic creativity Interior Portraiture and

Masculine Identity in France 1789 1914 provides a much needed rethinking of modern masculinity in this period

Colourworks Susan Harrow, 2020-12-10 How do modern writers write colour How do today's readers respond to the invitation to think colour as they read poetry and art writing and explore paintings To what extent can critical thought on colour in visual media illuminate the textual life of colour These are some of the lines of enquiry pursued in this bold new study of modern poetry and art writing in French where colour Susan Harrow argues is integral to the exploration of ekphrasis objects bodies landscape and interiority The question of colour in a variety of disciplines and media has provoked debate from Aristotle to Goethe and from Baudelaire to Derek Jarman If the past twenty years have witnessed a colour turn in contemporary cultural studies and screen research colour values in literary and textual media are often elided or simply overlooked Colourworks tackles this lacuna in the study of modern poetry and art writing in French revealing the integral role of colour in the work of three iconic French writers in the modern tradition St phane Mallarm Paul Val ry and Yves Bonnefoy This book spans the broad modern period from the 1860s to the early twenty first century in taking an exploratory approach to the visibility of the verbal medium through an adventurous reading of text and image Harrow uncovers how colour moves and morphs in texts as it challenges the traditionalist containments of chromatic symbolism Beyond its primary area of investigation in modern poetry and art writing in French this richly colour illustrated study has significant interdisciplinary implications conceptual methodological and practical for the study of visibility in humanities research from literature studies to material and visual culture studies

Creole Darcy Grimaldo Grigsby, 2022-11-18 This book addresses the unique and profound indeterminacy of Creole a label applied to white black and mixed race persons born in French colonies during the nineteenth century Creole implies that the geography of one's birth determines identity in ways that supersede race language nation and social status Paradoxically the very capaciousness of the term engendered a perpetual search for visual signs of racial difference as well as a pretense to blindness about the intermingling of races in Creole society Darcy Grimaldo Grigsby reconstructs the search for visual signs of racial difference among people whose genealogies were often repressed She explores French representations of Creole subjects and representations by Creole artists in France the Caribbean and the Americas To do justice to the complexity of Creole identity Grigsby interrogates the myriad ways in which people defined themselves in relation to others With close attention to the differences between Afro Creole and Euro Creole cultures and persons Grigsby examines figures such as Th odore Chass riau Guillaume Guillon Lethi re Alexandre Dumas p re douard Manet Edgar Degas the models Joseph and Laure Josephine Bonaparte Jeanne Duval and Adah Isaacs Menken Based on extensive archival research Creole is an original and important examination of colonial identity This essential study will be welcomed by specialists in nineteenth century art history French cultural history the history of race and transatlantic history more generally reading for all students of architecture Pictures-within-Pictures in Nineteenth-Century Britain Catherine Roach, 2017-07-05 Repainting the work of another into one's own canvas is a deliberate and often highly fraught act of reuse. This book examines the creation, display and reception of such images. Artists working in nineteenth-century London were in a peculiar position based in an imperial metropole yet undervalued by their competitors in continental Europe. Many claimed that Britain had yet to produce a viable national school of art. Using pictures within pictures, British painters challenged these claims and asserted their role in an ongoing visual tradition. By transforming pre-existing works of art, they also asserted their own painterly abilities. Recognizing these statements provided viewers with pleasure in the form of a witty visual puzzle solved and with prestige in the form of cultural knowledge demonstrated. At stake for both artist and audience in such exchanges was status: the status of the painter relative to other artists and the status of the viewer relative to other audience members. By considering these issues, this book demonstrates a new approach to images of historic displays. Through examinations of works by J. M. W. Turner, John Everett Millais, John Scarlett Davis, Emma Brownlow King and William Powell Frith, this book reveals how these small passages of paint conveyed both personal and national meanings. Painting with Monet Harmon Siegel, 2024-04-16 An examination of the paintings Monet made en plein air alongside his artist colleagues and the meaning and impact that this practice had on his fellow impressionists. Working Girls Katherine Mullin, 2016-05-05 Working Girls: Fiction, Sexuality and Modernity investigates the significance of a new form of sexual identity at the end of the nineteenth and beginning of the twentieth century. Young women of the lower middle and working classes were increasingly abandoning domestic service in favour of occupations of contested propriety. They inspired both moral unease and erotic fascination. Working Girls considers representations of four highly glamorised yet controversial types of women: worker, telegraphists and typists in newly feminised offices; shop assistants in the new department stores; and barmaids in the new gin palaces of major British cities. Economically emancipated more or less and liberated more or less from the protection and constraints of home and family, shop girls, barmaids, typists and telegraphists became mass media sensations. They energised a wide range of late Victorian and Modernist fiction. This study will bring late Victorian and Modernist British writers into intimate conversation with a substantial new archive of ephemeral sources often regarded as remote from high art and its concerns: popular fiction, music hall and musical comedy, beauty pageants and fairground exhibitions, visual art and early film, careers manuals, magazine and periodical journalism, moral reform crusades, Royal Commissions and attempts at protective legislation. Working Girls argues that these seductive yet perilous young women helped writers negotiate anxieties about the state of literary culture in the United Kingdom. Crucially, they preoccupy novelists who were themselves beleaguered by anxieties over cultural capital, the shifting pressures of the literary marketplace or controversies about the morality of fiction, often leading to the threat of censorship. In articulating questions about sexual integrity, Working Girls articulates often submerged questions about textual integrity and the role of the modern novel The Gamin de Paris in Nineteenth-Century Visual Culture Marilyn R. Brown, 2017-05-08 The revolutionary boy at the barricades was memorably envisioned in Eugène Delacroix's painting Liberty Leading the People 1830 and Victor Hugo's novel Les Misérables 1862 Over the course of the nineteenth century images of the Paris urchin entered the collective social imaginary as cultural and psychic sites of memory whether in avant garde or more conventional visual culture Visual and literary paradigms of the mythical gamin de Paris were born of recurring political revolutions 1830 1832 1848 1871 and of masculine bourgeois identity constructions that responded to continuing struggles over visions and fantasies of nationhood With the destabilization of traditional patriarchal family models the diminishing of the father's symbolic role and the intensification of the brotherly urchin's psychosexual relationship with the allegorical motherland what had initially been socially marginal eventually became symbolically central in classed and gendered inventions and repeated re-inventions of fraternity people and nation Within a fundamentally split conception of the people the bohemian boy insurrectionary an embodiment of freedom was transformed by ongoing discourses of power and reform of victimization and agency into a capitalist entrepreneur schoolboy colonizer and budding military defender of the fatherland A contested figure of the city became a contradictory emblem of the nation
