

A digital illustration of a human head in profile, facing right. The head is rendered in a translucent blue color. Inside the head, the brain is depicted as a glowing, complex network of yellow and orange lines, resembling a circuit board or a neural network. The background is a dark blue space filled with numerous floating numbers (0-9) in various colors (yellow, orange, red, green, blue) and sizes. Some numbers are larger and more prominent, while others are smaller and more distant. There are also faint, glowing lines and patterns that suggest a digital or mathematical environment. The overall effect is one of a mind connected to a vast, complex system of numbers and data.
