Tamud Yerushalami , Metamorphosis and Place Mohamed Bakari,Joshua Parker,Lucie Tunkrova,2009-05-27 If personal and national identity is often constructed in terms of place how do our identities and values change as places themselves are transformed What happens to the spaces in which we live as societal values and identities change These questions can be asked of almost any discipline whether one is taking a photograph or mapping a literary topography tracing linguistic change in a geographic region or language s importance to our conception of a political territory building a house or place of worship on a physical plot of land or constructing them from words on a page or computer software Few places are ever uniquely our own We share them knowing that the geographic points stabilizing our own identities serve on their reverse side to support an entirely different set of meanings We project our cultural or disciplinary markers onto landscapes which are already hardly blank but full of others meanings This collection brings together scholars from a range of disciplines including literary and cultural studies history political science architecture anthropology photography and art history communications sociology lexicography linguistics tourism management and theoretical psychoanalysis each shedding light on how place is both a transforming subject and a transformed object Wessex Barbara Yorke,1995-08-01 Wessex is central to the study of early medieval English history it was the dynasty which created the kingdom of England This volume uses archaeological and place name evidence to present an authoritative account of the most significant of the English Kingdoms Place-names, Language and the Anglo-Saxon Landscape N.
