A History of the Western Art Market Titia Hulst, 2017-09-19 This is the first sourcebook to trace the emergence and evolution of art markets in the Western economy framing them within the larger narrative of the ascendancy of capitalist markets Selected writings from across academic disciplines present compelling evidence of art's inherent commercial dimension and show how artists dealers and collectors have interacted over time from the city states of Quattrocento Italy to the high stakes markets of postmillennial New York and Beijing This approach casts a startling new light on the traditional concerns of art history and aesthetics revealing much that is provocative profound and occasionally even comic This volume's unique historical perspective makes it appropriate for use in college courses and postgraduate and professional programs as well as for professionals working in art related environments such as museums galleries and auction houses Painting for the Market Filip Vermeulen, 2003 This study examines the process of commercialization of art which took place in Antwerp during the long sixteenth century an era of rapid expansion of both the city's economy and its art market The key development that explains the success of Antwerp as an export center for the arts lies not only in the strength of the Antwerp economy and the artistic tradition of the Southern Netherlands but specifically in the shift from ordering artwork on commission to the production for the open market The outbreak of the Dutch Revolt during the last third of the sixteenth century severely disrupted the economy of the Southern Netherlands and as a result the Antwerp art market collapsed in the mid 1580s

London and the Emergence of a European Art Market, 1780-1820 Susanna Avery-Quash, Christian Huemer, 2019-08-06 Showcasing diverse methodologies this volume illuminates London's central role in the development of a European art market at the turn of the nineteenth century In the late 1700s as the events of the French Revolution roiled France London displaced Paris as the primary hub of international art sales Within a few decades a robust and sophisticated art market flourished in London London and the Emergence of a European Art Market 1780 1820 explores the commercial milieu of art sales and collecting at this turning point In this collection of essays twenty two scholars employ methods ranging from traditional art historical and provenance studies to statistical and economic analysis they provide overviews case studies and empirical reevaluations of artists collectors patrons agents and dealers institutions sales and practices Drawing from pioneering digital resources notably the Getty Provenance Index as well as archival materials such as trade directories correspondence stock books and inventories auction catalogs and exhibition reviews these scholars identify broad trends reevaluate previous misunderstandings and consider overlooked commercial contexts From individual case studies to econometric overviews this volume is groundbreaking for its diverse methodological range that illuminates artistic taste and flourishing art commerce at the turn of the nineteenth century

Art Market and Connoisseurship Anna Tummers, Koenraad Jonckheere, 2008 The question of whether seventeenth century painters such as Rembrandt and Rubens were exclusively responsible for the paintings later sold under their names has caused many a heated debate Despite the rise of scholarship on the history of the art market much is still unknown about the ways in which paintings were produced assessed priced and marketed during this period which leads to several provocative questions did contemporary connoisseurs expect masters such as Rembrandt to paint works entirely by their own hand Who was credited with the ability to assess paintings as genuine The contributors to this engaging collection Eric Jan Sluijter Hans Van Miegroet and Neil De Marchi among them trace these issues through the booming art market of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries arriving at fascinating and occasionally unexpected conclusions

Pioneers of the Global Art Market Christel H. Force, 2020-11-26 By the turn of the twentieth century Paris was the capital of the art world While this is usually understood to mean that Paris was the center of art production and trading this book examines a phenomenon that has received little attention thus far Paris based dealers relied on an ever expanding international network of peers Many of the city's galleries capitalized on foreign collectors interest by expanding globally and proactively cultivating transnational alliances If the French capital drew artists from around the world from Cassatt to Picasso the contemporary art market was international in scope Art dealers deliberately tapped into a growing pool of discerning collectors in northern and eastern Europe the UK and the USA International trade was rendered not just desirable but necessary by the devastating effects of wars revolutions currency devaluation and market crashes which stalled collecting in Europe Pioneers of the Global Art Market assembles original scholarship based on a close inspection of and fresh perspective on extant dealer records It caters to an amplified curiosity concerning the emergence and workings of our unprecedented contemporary centric and global art market This anthology fills a significant gap in the expanding field of art market studies by addressing how initially contemporary art which is now known as historical modernism made its way into collections who validated what by promoting and selling it where and how It includes unpublished material concrete examples bibliographical and archival references and should appeal to academics curators educators dealers collectors artists and art lovers alike It celebrates the modern art dealer as transnational impresario the global reach of the modern art market and the impact of traders on the history of collecting and ultimately on the history of art Art Markets and Digital Histories Claartje Rasterhoff, Sandra van Ginhoven, 2020-03-16 This Special Issue of Arts investigates the use of digital methods in the study of art markets and their histories As historical and contemporary data is rapidly becoming more available and digital technologies are becoming integral to research in the humanities and social sciences we sought to bring together contributions that reflect on the different strategies that art market scholars employ to navigate and negotiate digital techniques and resources The essays in this issue cover a wide range of topics and research questions Taken together the essays offer a reflection on what takes to research art markets which includes addressing difficult topics such as the nature of the research questions and the data available to us and the conceptual aspects of art markets in order to define and operationalize variables and to interpret visual and statistical patterns for scholarship In our view this discussion is enriched when also taking into account how to use shared or interoperable ontologies and vocabularies to define concepts and relationships that facilitate the use and exchange of linked open data for cultural heritage and historical research The Development of the Art Market in England

Thomas M Bayer, 2015-10-06 This book gives a comprehensive account of the history and underlying economics of the modern art market in eighteenth and nineteenth century Britain Posthumous Art, Law and the Art Market Sharon Hecker, Peter J. Karol, 2022-04-28 This book takes an interdisciplinary transnational and cross cultural approach to reflect on critically examine and challenge the surprisingly robust practice of making art after death in an artist's name through the lenses of scholars from the fields of art history economics and law as well as practicing artists Works of art conceived as multiples such as sculptures etchings prints photographs and conceptual art can be and often are remade from original models and plans long after the artist has passed Recent sales have suggested a growing market embrace of posthumous works contemporaneous with questioning on the part of art history Legal norms seem unready for this surge in posthumous production and are beset by conflict across jurisdictions Non Western approaches to posthumous art from Chinese emulations of non living artists to Native American performances take into account rituals of generational passage at odds with contemporary market driven approaches The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history the art market art law art management museum studies and economics Researching Art Markets Elisabetta Lazzaro, Nathalie Moureau, Adriana Turpin, 2021-05-25 Researching Art Markets brings together a scholars from several various disciplinary perspectives In doing so this collection offers a unique multi disciplinary contribution that disentangles some of the key aspects and trends in art market practices from the past to nowadays namely art collectors the artist as an entrepreneur and career paths and the formation and development of new markets In understanding the global art market as an ecosystem the book also examines how research and perceptions have evolved over time Within the frameworks of contemporary social economic and political contexts issues such as business practices the roles of market participants and the importance of networks are analysed by scholars of different disciplines With insights from across the humanities and social sciences the book explores how different methods can coexist to create an interdisciplinary international community of knowledge and research on art markets Moreover by providing historical as well as contemporary examples this book explores the continuum and diversity of the art market Overall this book provides a valuable tool for understanding art markets within their wider context The volume is of interest to scholars researching into the cultural and creative industries from a wider perspective
