Moods of the Ohio Moons Merrill C. Gilfillan,1991 For almost thirty years Merrill Gilfillan has written outdoor columns devoted primarily to describing and creating moods about the world of nature These columns are informed by a rural background and field notes from more than sixty years of outdoor experience In Gilfillan s words Observation is more of the mind than of vision our attitude is the secret of original observation I choose the subjective approach to outdoor enjoyment I did this after training in zoology and twenty years of field work as a wildlife biologist We should learn to seek our own original view of what we observe The scientific method is necessary to gain facts but the manner in which one experiences the facts is what will determine their final value to the individual and perhaps to society Moods of the Ohio Moons is the product of this subjective method of observation balanced with scientific knowledge and intended to encourage readers to explore their own individual appreciation and understanding of nature Twelve essays one for each month relate incidents and events weather diagnostic events vegetation and wildlife agriculture trends of land use and the wild harvest that contribute to the mood of the time As Gilfillan demonstrates each month has its mood established primarily by nature and only secondarily by humans

The Elements of Astronomy Elias Loomis,1870

Science for the New Zealand Curriculum Year 11 Donald Reid,Geoffrey Groves,Colin Price,Ian Tennant,2011-04 Science for the New Zealand Curriculum Year 11 continues from the Year 9 and 10 titles in the series to cover Level 6 of the Science Learning Area and the realigned NCEA Level 1 Achieving Standards Like the earlier books the Nature of Science strand is the overarching theme through which the textbook aims to bring to students the story of science as a human endeavour relating to our everyday lives and the world The text and it s workbook are written by teachers with many years experience of preparing students for high achievement in the NCEA The books offer a range of activities that encourage students to think like a scientist and understand investigate communicate participate and contribute to the world of science Our Place in the Universe Sun Kwok,2017-04-22 If you have ever wanted to understand the basic principles of astronomy and celestial movements you should read this book Using pictures of the sky observed from different places on Earth as well as drawings of ancient astronomical methods and tools Prof Sun Kwok tells this story in an entertaining and fascinating way Since the beginning of human civilization people have wondered about the structure of the cosmos and our place in the Universe More than 2 000 years ago our ancestors knew that the seasons were unequal the Earth was an unattached object floating in space and stars existed that they could not see From celestial observations they concluded that the Earth was round Using simple tools and mathematics ancient astronomers accurately determined the sizes of the Earth and Moon the distance to the Moon and the lengths of the months and year With a clever device called the armillary sphere Greek astronomers could predict the times of sunrise and sunset on any day of the year at any place on Earth They developed sophisticated mathematical models to forecast Mars motions hundreds of years into the future Find out how ancient observers achieved these remarkable feats With minimal use of mathematics this book retraces the footsteps of our ancestors explains their intellectual journeys in simple terms and explores the philosophical implications of these discoveries Introduction to Science Otis William Caldwell,Francis Day Curtis,1929
