Quantitative Analyses Of Behavior Volume 1:

Quantitative Analyses of Behavior, 1987 Neural Network Models of Conditioning and Action Michael L.

Commons, Stephen Grossberg, John Staddon, 2016-09-19 Originally published in 1991 this title was the result of a symposium held at Harvard University It presents some of the exciting interdisciplinary developments of the time that clarify how animals and people learn to behave adaptively in a rapidly changing environment The contributors focus on aspects of how recognition learning reinforcement learning and motor learning interact to generate adaptive goal oriented behaviours that can satisfy internal needs an area of inquiry as important for understanding brain function as it is for designing new types of freely moving autonomous robots Since the authors agree that a dynamic analysis of system interactions is needed to understand these challenging phenomena and neural network models provide a natural framework for representing and analysing such interactions all the articles either develop neural network models or provide biological constraints for guiding and testing their design The Effect of Delay and of Intervening Events on Reinforcement Value Michael L.

Commons, James E. Mazur, John A. Nevin, Howard Rachlin, 2013-12-19 First published in 1986 This is Volume V of six in a series on Quantitative Analyses of Behavior Quantitative analysis now generally refers to the fact that theoretical issues are represented by quantitative models An analysis is not a matter of fitting arbitrary functions to data points The volumes in the present series have been written for behavioral scientists Those concerned with issues in the study of how behavior is acquired and then allocated in various environments biologists psychologists economists anthropologists and other researchers as well as graduate students and advanced undergraduates in those areas should find volumes in this series to be state of the art readers and reference works Each volume of the series examines a particular topic that has been discussed at the annual Symposium on Quantitative Analyses of Behavior held at Harvard University This volume V addresses the topic of how reinforcement value is affected by delay and intervening events Self control studies are also presented and discussed

Behavioral Genetics of the Mouse: Volume 1, Genetics of Behavioral Phenotypes Wim E. Crusio, Frans Sluyter, Robert T. Gerlai, Susanna Pietropaolo, 2013-04-25 The first volume in the new Cambridge Handbooks in Behavioral Genetics series Behavioral Genetics of the Mouse provides baseline information on normal behaviors essential in both the design of experiments using genetically modified or pharmacologically treated animals and in the interpretation and analyses of the results obtained The book offers a comprehensive overview of the genetics of naturally occurring variation in mouse behavior from perception and spontaneous behaviors such as exploration aggression social interactions and motor behaviors to reinforced behaviors such as the different types of learning Also included are numerous examples of potential experimental problems which will aid and guide researchers trying to troubleshoot their own studies A lasting reference the thorough and comprehensive reviews offer an easy entrance into the extensive literature in this field and will prove invaluable to students and specialists alike Encyclopedia of Neuroscience, Volume 1 Larry R. Squire, 2009-06-12 The Encyclopedia of the

Neuroscience explores all areas of the discipline in its focused entries on a wide variety of topics in neurology neurosurgery psychiatry and other related areas of neuroscience Each article is written by an expert in that specific domain and peer reviewed by the advisory board before acceptance into the encyclopedia Each article contains a glossary introduction a reference section and cross references to other related encyclopedia articles Written at a level suitable for university undergraduates the breadth and depth of coverage will appeal beyond undergraduates to professionals and academics in related fields
