Legal Limits in Journalism and Broadcasting

Journalism and broadcasting are two of the most important and most controversial of the modern professions. The American Society of Newspaper Editors, the National Association of Broadcasters, and the Federal Communications Commission are the three main organizations that regulate these professions. The American Society of Newspaper Editors is a national organization of newspaper editors. The National Association of Broadcasters is a national organization of broadcast station owners and operators. The Federal Communications Commission is a federal agency that regulates interstate and foreign communication by radio, television, and satellite.
