

Managing mill maintenance

by Alice Neat, associate editor, Grain and Feed Milling Technology, United Kingdom

It would be wonderful if maintenance were easy. If machines only broke down during scheduled maintenance shutdowns, parts could be sourced quickly, maintenance would be simple. But of course, life is never so straightforward and things go wrong at the most inconvenient times.

Aside from the cost of shutting down a processing line, poor maintenance can have multiple impacts. Relying on cheap equipment regularly can lead to a reduction in product quality. Inconsistent products can lead to increased costs and do little to ensure customer confidence.

If defective products leave the mill, they can endanger human and animal health. In a worst-case scenario, lack of maintenance can cause the deaths of both staff and end users.

This responsibility towards consumers is echoed by the American Feed Industry Association (AFIA). "We believe that feed mill maintenance is of the utmost importance. Properly maintaining feed mills and other feed facilities is the industry's demonstration of its commitment to its consumers," says Linda Malone, communications manager, AFIA.

In addition to product quality and health and safety concerns, cost is a compelling reason to adhere to good maintenance. With production costs escalating, the importance of a well thought out and structured maintenance schedule is vital.

Prevention rather than cure

As the old saying goes, prevention is better than cure but what is preventative maintenance and how can it be of use in the mill? Preventative maintenance is the simple, day-to-day checks and monitoring which help keep a mill running smoothly. The main aim of a preventative maintenance schedule is to reduce major repair bills by addressing minor problems as they occur. A preventative maintenance programme doesn't cost the earth and will save money in the long run.

"In order for a flour mill to benefit consistently from the maximum utilisation of its assets, it is necessary to have an effective planned maintenance strategy in place. This will ensure that plant failures diminish. It is far better to discover a potential problem before it results in an unplanned stoppage," says Nigel Bennett, Company Secretary and Employment Affairs Manager, AFIA.

The American Feed Industry Association (AFIA) has initiated the Feed PM of the Year programme, as well as creating several voluntary, third party certification programs, including Safe Feed/Safe Food and its international counterpart and most recently, the PM Feed Manufacturing Facility and the PM Feed Ingredient Facility certification programs.

The organisation believes it is responsible for the industry producing safe feed, feed ingredients, pet feed and pet feed ingredients, in order to produce safe, healthy animals. Creating the certification programs to meet and exceed the highest standards of feed and feed safety demonstrates AFIA's commitment to its members and the industry.
