Medical Anthropology in Europe Doreen Montag, 2005 This handbook to existing medical anthropology programs at the undergraduate and postgraduate level in Europe is designed for students who are looking for suitable training and professionals who are looking for expertise in the field

Medical Anthropology in Europe: Teaching and Doctoral Research Elisabeth Hsu, Doreen Montag, 2005 Medical Anthropology is the fastest growing field within anthropology Over the last three decades it has developed a strong academic and applied importance both in North America and Europe This has led to the establishment of a specific degree in medicine

Medical Anthropology in Europe Elisabeth Hsu, Caroline Potter, 2016-03-17 This collection brings together three generations of medical anthropologists working at European universities to reflect on past current and future directions of the field Medical anthropology emerged on an international playing ground and while other recently compiled anthologies emphasize North American developments this volume highlights substantial ethnographic and theoretical studies undertaken in Europe The first four chapters trace the beginnings of medical anthropology back into the two formative decades between the 1950s 1970s in Italy German speaking Europe the Netherlands France and the UK supported by four brief vignettes on current developments Three core themes that emerged within this field in Europe the practice of care the body politic and psycho sensorial dimensions of healing are first presented in synopsis and then separately discussed by three leading medical anthropologists Susan Whyte Giovanni Pizza and Ren Devisch complemented by the work of three early career researchers The chapters aim to highlight how very diverse and sometimes overlooked European developments within this rapidly growing field have been and continue to be This book will spur reflection on medical anthropology's potential for future scholarship and practice by students and established scholars alike This book was originally published as a special issue of Anthropology and Medicine

Educational Histories of European Social Anthropology Dorle Dracklé, Iain R. Edgar, Thomas K. Schippers, 2003 Aimed at professional anthropologists their students and academic policy makers the contributions to this volume provide an unprecedented array of insights into the current teaching and learning of social anthropology across Europe With case studies from eighteen different countries this volume presents a rich panorama of local histories contexts and experiences which are essential contributions to current debates on the role and significance of anthropology in an era of converging Higher Education policies More practically the volume offers teachers and students the possibility of developing international exchanges supported by a previously unobtainable knowledge of institutional histories and differing local contexts

Anthropology in Medical Education Iveris Martinez, Dennis W. Wiedman, 2021-03-04 This volume reflects on how anthropologists have engaged in medical education and aims to positively influence the future careers of anthropologists who are currently engaged or are considering a career in medical education The volume is essential for medical educators administrators researchers and practitioners those interested in the history of medicine global health sociology of health and illness medical and applied anthropology For over a century anthropologists have served in many roles in medical education teaching curriculum development administration research and planning Recent changes in medical education focusing on diversity social determinants of health and more humanistic patient centered care have opened the door for more anthropologists in medical schools The chapter authors describe various ways in which anthropologists have engaged and are currently involved in training physicians in various countries as well as potential new directions in this field They address critical topics such as the history of anthropology in medical education humanism ethics and the culture of medicine interprofessional and collaborative clinical care incorporating patient perspectives in practice addressing social determinants of health health disparities and cultural competence anthropological roles in planning and implementation of medical education programs effective strategies for teaching medical students comparative analysis of systems of care in Japan Uganda France United Kingdom Mexico Canada and throughout the United States and potential new directions for anthropological engagement with medicine The volume overall emphasizes the important role of anthropology in educating physicians throughout the world to improve patient care and population health Fieldnotes in Qualitative Education and Social Science Research Casey

Burkholder, Jennifer Thompson, 2020-04-08 Building upon the incorporation of fieldnotes into anthropological research this edited collection explores fieldnote practices from within education and the social sciences Framed by social justice concerns about power in knowledge production this insightful collection explores methodological questions about the production use sharing and dissemination of fieldnotes Particular attention is given to the role of context and author positionality in shaping fieldnotes practices Why do researchers take fieldnotes What do their fieldnotes look like What ethical concerns do different types of fieldnotes practices provoke By drawing on case studies from numerous international contexts including Argentina Cameroon Canada Ghana Hong Kong Hungary Kenya Lebanon Malawi the Netherlands South Africa and the US the text provides comprehensive and nuanced answers to these questions This text will be of interest to academics and scholars conducting research across the social sciences and in particular in the fields of anthropology and education Graduate
