Mental Retardation Programs How Does Massachusetts Compare Pioneer Paper No 4:

Bilingual Education in Massachusetts Christine H. Rossell, Keith Baker, 1996 Massachusetts is one of only nine states in the country to require bilingual education in all school districts where there is a sufficient number of limited English proficient LEP students Moreover Massachusetts has set the lowest threshold for mandatory bilingual education in the country Observations of actual classroom practice demonstrates that these students are not all receiving the same style of education Generally only Spanish speaking students are taught to read write in their native language while also receiving some native language instruction in other academic subjects as existing law requires Students from virtually all other groups though enrolled in bilingual education receive instruction almost exclusively in English with at most a few hours per week of enrichment in their native languages cultures Twenty five years after passage of the bilingual education law in Massachusetts there is still no proof that the mandated approach to teaching works better than other approaches such as intensive English instruction Not only is there no proof from Massachusetts but there is none from the many studies that have been conducted in other states If one can draw any conclusion it is that teaching a LEP student in their native language is at least marginally detrimental to their acquisition of English To order contact Pioneer Institute 85 Devonshire Street 8th Floor Boston MA 02109 617 723 2277 New England Economic Review, 1992

School Choice in Massachusetts Abigail M. Thernstrom, 1991 Examines the theory and practice of school choice within a school district with a close look at the controlled choice plans that MA cities have adopted discusses whether market pressures will make for better schools the issue of interdistrict choice and choice that includes private and parochial options makes recommendations to expand parental options
