New Look At Red China:

The "new" Red China Lobby Robert A. Hunter, Forrest Davis, 1966 Collection of Speeches June, 1956-February, 1957 Hollington Kong Tong, 1957 Congressional Record United States. Congress, 1971 Congressional Record Index, 1951 Includes history of bills and resolutions Oral Traditions in Contemporary China Juwen Zhang, 2021-11-08 In Oral Traditions in Contemporary China Healing a Nation Juwen Zhang provides a systematic survey of such oral traditions as folk and fairy tales proverbs ballads and folksongs that are vibrantly practiced today Zhang establishes a theoretical framework for understanding how Chinese culture has continued for thousands of years with vitality and validity core and arbitrary identity markers and folkloric identity This framework which describes a cultural self healing mechanism is equally applicable to the exploration of other traditions and cultures in the world Through topics from Chinese Cinderella to the Grimms of China from proverbs like older ginger is spicier to the life views held by the Chinese and from mountain songs and ballads to the musical instruments like the clay vessel flute the author weaves these oral traditions across time and space into a mesmerizing intellectual journey Focusing on contemporary practice this book serves as a bridge between Chinese and international folklore scholarship and other related disciplines as well Those interested in Chinese culture in general and Chinese folklore literature and oral tradition in particular will certainly delight in perusing this book China United States. Department of State, 1986 Changing Clothes in China Antonia Finnane, 2008-01-24 Based largely on nineteenth and twentieth century representations of Chinese dress as traditional and unchanging historians have long regarded fashion as something peculiarly Western But in this surprising sumptuously illustrated book Antonia Finnane proves that vibrant fashions were a vital part of Chinese life in the late imperial era when well to do men and women showed a keen awareness of what was up to date Though foreigners who traveled to China in the early decades of the twentieth century came away with the impression that Chinese dress was simple and monotone the key features of modern fashion were beginning to emerge especially in Shanghai Men in blue gowns donned felt caps and leather shoes girls began to wear fitted jackets and narrow pants and homespun garments gave way to machine woven cloth often made in foreign lands These innovations marked the start of a far reaching vestimentary revolution that would transform the clothing culture in urban and much of rural China over the next half century Through Finnane's meticulous research we are able to see how the close fitting jacket and high collar of the 1911 Revolutionary period the skirt and jacket blouse of the May Fourth era and the military style popular in the Cultural Revolution led to the variegated globalized wardrobe of today She brilliantly connects China's modernization and global visibility with changes in dress offering a vivid portrait of the complex subtle and sometimes contradictory ways the people of China have worn their nation on their backs American Editor in Early Revolutionary China Neil O'Brien, 2004-03 This is a study of Sino American relations and the editorial policy of the China Weekly Review China Monthly Review published in Shanghai by John William Powell during the Chinese Civil War and the Korean War The Review supported US attempts in early 1946 to avert civil war through the creation of a coalition government. By 1947 it reflected growing disillusionment with Guomindang policies and increasing sympathy for the demands of impoverished students and faculty for multi party democracy and peace. As the Civil War shifted in favour of the Communists in late 1948 Powell and the Review counseled US businessmen to remain in Shanghai and urged the US government to establish working relations with the Communists and later to recognize the new regime. Staying in Shanghai to report changes engendered by the Communist victory the Review's staff accommodated themselves to the new orthodoxy and to the regime's coordination of the press. During the Korean War the Review opposed the expanding US air war becoming the foremost American purveyor of Chinese and North Korean allegations of American use of bacteriological weapons. The Review was also utilized for the political indoctrination of US prisoners of war by the Chinese and North Koreans. After closing the Review in July 1953 and returning to the United States Powell, his wife Sylvia Campbell and assistant editor Julian Schuman were put on trial for sedition. As the government narrowed its focus to the bacteriological warfare issue Powell and his lawyers countered by trying to prove the veracity of the charges seeking witnesses in China and North Korea. Adverse publicity led to a mistrial in January 1959 and limitations in both the sedition and treason statutes ended plans to renew prosecution. Powell and the Review had insisted that positive diplomatic and economic relations between China and the United States were both possible and desirable. The gradual normalization of trade investment and political relations since the 1970s seemed to validate this belief. In the post Cold War age when Sino American relations are often strained and tempestuous this book serves as a reminder of the value of making the extra effort to achieve understanding.
