

Peace On Bougainville

Christine Bell

Peace On Bougainville:

Peace on Bougainville Rebecca Adams, 2001 This is a unique look at the country of Bougainville its people their history and their move toward peace told from the perspectives of the people involved both within and outside of the process The book traces the peace movement from November 20 1997 when unarmed monitors from New Zealand Australia Vanuatu and Fiji arrived in Bougainville with the agreement of the Papua New Guinea government and most of the political factions on Bougainville Their task was to establish a secure atmosphere in which Bougainvilleans could forge their own peaceful solution to the conflict The individual viewpoints show how the fragile road toward a peaceful outcome was constructed

Reconciliation and Architectures of Commitment John Braithwaite, Hilary Charlesworth, Peter Reddy, Leah Dunn, 2010-09-01 Following a bloody civil war peace consolidated slowly and sequentially in Bougainville That sequence was of both a top down architecture of credible commitment in a formal peace process and layer upon layer of bottom up reconciliation Reconciliation was based on indigenous traditions of peacemaking It also drew on Christian traditions of reconciliation on training in restorative justice principles and on innovation in womens peacebuilding Peacekeepers opened safe spaces for reconciliation but it was locals who shaped and owned the peace There is much to learn from this distinctively indigenous peace architecture It is a far cry from the norms of a liberal peace or a realist peace The authors describe it as a hybrid restorative peace in which mothers of the land and then male combatants linked arms in creative ways A danger to Bougainville s peace is weakness of international commitment to honour the result of a forthcoming independence referendum that is one central plank of the peace deal

Building Peace in Bougainville Geoff T. Harris, Naihuwo Ahai, Rebecca Spence, 1999 Working Together to Bring Lasting Peace to Bougainville Papua New Guinea. Minister for Bougainville Affairs, 1997 Bougainville Australia. Parliament. Joint Standing Committee on Foreign Affairs, Defence, and Trade, 1999 Setting the Agenda for Global Peace Anna C. Snyder, 2017-07-05 Anna Snyder provides a detailed account of the challenges women representatives in non governmental organizations NGOs faced in building bridges across diverse ethnic racial national regional and ideological backgrounds at the 4th United Nations UN Conference on Women This book traces the process by which women s peace groups set an agenda for global policies in the area of women and armed conflict Setting the Agenda for Global Peace shows how NGOs use conflict to develop transnational social movements and to build consensus around issues of global concern Using this conference as a case study Snyder finds three purposes for social movement conflict contention arising from policy development deep rooted historical conflict and conflicts over NGO network priorities Drawing together feminist conflict resolution and social movement theories this comprehensive text analyzes the large scale decision making processes for NGOs and points towards future directions for conflict resolution and consensus building Listening to the Silences: Women and War Helen Durham, Tracey Gurd, 2005-06-01 Challenging the perception that women are exclusively the victims the caregivers or the passive supporters of men in times of armed conflict Listening to the Silences Women and War exposes the reader to a diversity of women's voices. These voices, both personal and academic, demonstrate that women are increasingly taking on less traditional roles during war and that these roles are multifaceted, complicated, and sometimes contradictory. The experiences of a judge, forensic anthropologist, survivor of sexual slavery, soldier, activist, journalist, humanitarian worker, and others provide the reader with the opportunity to consider the depth of women's involvement in armed conflict. Their voices highlight the fact that the international community at large has historically failed to listen to women even as they have tried to tell their own individual tales of horror, heroism, courage, devastation, betrayal, violence, and integrity during armed conflict. Concurrently, the book examines in detail the legal infrastructure in this area, including debates on the adequacy of international law, developments in jurisprudence, and the implementation of international resolutions. This book reveals that responses to women's requirements during times of war will continue to be inadequate so long as we persist in silencing these differing perspectives and fail to take account of women's dynamic and changing needs during war. Listening to the Silences Women and War is a collection of women's voices, each of which makes a unique contribution to a topic that is gathering international momentum and interest. The perspectives of these women greatly enhance our understanding of the gendered dimensions of armed conflict; they help to move the discourse beyond silence and towards inclusion, greater understanding, and peace.

Settling Self-Determination Disputes Marc Weller, Barbara Metzger, Niall Johnson, 2008. The study is the result of an international collaborative project supported and funded by the Carnegie Corporation of New York. This multi-year venture has involved a research team of some forty chapter authors and commentators. The research has been accompanied by three major workshops on project methodology, initial chapter reviews, and final discussions. A point was made of including both scholars and practitioners involved in power sharing settlements in the review process in the hope that more would be learned about the actual implementation of the settlements under investigation. The project team was united in its wish to explore whether long-standing secessionist conflicts have been addressed effectively through the significant number of self-determination settlements that were generated in response to the wave of internal conflicts of the 1990s. It was also committed to testing whether consociationalist and integrative techniques of conflict settlement really are as mutually exclusive as is sometimes supposed, or whether they can in fact be mutually reinforcing. Finally, the project derives its impetus from the necessity to critically rethink the doctrine of self-determination. One may question whether its traditional restrictive interpretation will be adequate in confronting the wide variety of future challenges to the territorial integrity of states.

The Oxford Handbook of Women, Peace and Security Sara E. Davies, Jacqui True, 2019. Passed in 2000, the United Nations Security Council Resolution 1325 and subsequent seven Resolutions make up the Women, Peace and Security (WPS) agenda. This agenda is an international policy framework addressing the gender-specific impacts of conflict on women and girls, including protection against sexual and gender-based violence, promotion of women's participation in peace and security processes, and support for women's roles as peace builders in the prevention of conflict and rebuilding of societies after conflict The handbook addresses the concepts and early history behind WPS international institutions involved with the WPS agenda the implementation of WPS in conflict prevention and connections between WPS and other UN resolutions and agendas

Peace Operations and Restorative Justice Peter Reddy, 2016-05-13 With a bold vision and a distinctive message Reddy stipulates that international peacekeeping can be designed and implemented using the principles of restorative justice To prove this Reddy discusses the congruence of crime armed conflict and violent disorder critiquing restorative justice and its nuanced character as a suitable application to complex civil wars This book provides a comprehensive survey of peace operations and then focuses on the cases of Somalia and Bougainville The comparison between their societal contexts their conflicts peace operations and final outcomes are crucial to this argument Furthermore this shows how the constraining maximising and emergent values of restorative justice can be applied in a peacekeeping setting from the overall command level through to the behaviours of deployed peacekeepers with direct contemporary application This sharp study makes for evocative reading as it introduces the new concept of regeneration as key to any restoratively arranged peace operation Military police NGO and civilian peacekeeper practitioners as well as academic theorists can use this unique work to produce better and more lasting results for conflict ridden communities

Lawyering Peace Paul R. Williams, 2021-12-16 How do parties to peace negotiations actually build durable peace and what conundrums must they solve to achieve durable peace

On the Law of Peace Christine Bell, 2008-09-25 This book provides a comprehensive analysis of the use of peace agreements from a legal perspective The book describes and evaluates the development of contemporary peace agreement practice and the documents which emerge It sets out what is in essence an anatomy of peace agreement practice and locates this practice with reference to the role of law The last fifteen years have seen a proliferation of peace agreements These peace agreements have been produced as a result of complex peace processes involving multi party negotiations between the main protagonists of conflict often with the involvement of international actors They document attempts to end conflict and this book argues that they play an underestimated role in a political process that centrally revolves around law Understanding peace agreements is important to understanding contemporary peace processes Law plays two key roles with respect to peace agreements first to the extent that peace agreements themselves form legal documents law plays a role in the enforcement or implementation of the peace agreement second international law has a relationship to peace agreement negotiation and content in an enabling or regulatory capacity The aim of the book is to evaluate the role which law plays both in enforcing peace agreements and through a normative framework which constrains the ways in which they operate This evaluation reveals a deeper link between the legal status of peace agreements and their normative regulation as mutually shaping in what is argued to be a developing lex pacificatoria or law of the peace makers This lex pacificatoria stands as an account of the way in which international law shapes and is shaped by peace agreements in ways which impact on contemporary debates about the force of international law Fighting Over Peace Andrew G. Reiter, 2016-09-19 This book presents post peace agreement violence as a serious yet predictable and manageable political phenomenon Negotiating an end to a civil war is extremely difficult and many signed peace agreements subsequently unravel ushering in renewed conflict In response important international actors have become increasingly involved in conflict mediation peacekeeping and post conflict reconstruction around the globe Policymakers and scholars alike have identified spoilers violent actors who often rise up and attempt to challenge or derail the peace process as one of the greatest threats to peace Using a mixed method approach combining quantitative and qualitative analyses of a newly created global dataset of spoiling Reiter demonstrates that this type of violence occurs in predictable circumstances and only represents a threat to peace under specific conditions The book also shows that spoiling often serves to bring agreement flaws and implementation failures to light and in turn forces actors to recommit to an accord thereby strengthening peace in the long term Peace Negotiations and Time Marco Pinfari, 2013 This book discusses the role of time in peace negotiations and peace processes in the post Cold War period making reference to real world negotiations and using comparative data Deadlines are increasingly used by mediators to spur deadlocked negotiation processes under the assumption that fixed time limits tend to favour pragmatism Yet little attention is typically paid to the durability of agreements concluded in these conditions and research in experimental psychology suggests that time pressure can have a negative impact on individual and collective decision making by reducing each side's ability to deal with complex issues complex inter group dynamics and inter cultural relations This volume explores this lacuna in current research through a comparative model that includes 68 episodes of negotiation and then more in detail in relation to four cases studies the Bougainville and Casamance peace processes and the Dayton and Camp David proximity talks The case studies reveal that in certain conditions low time pressure can impact positively on the durability of agreements by making possible effective intra rebel agreements before official negotiations and that time pressure works in proximity talks only when applied to solving circumscribed deadlocks This book will be of much interest to students of peace processes conflict resolution negotiation diplomacy and international relations in general Local Legitimacy and International Peace Intervention Oliver P. Richmond, 2020-07-31 Furthering the understanding of the legitimate authority in internationally led peace and state building interventions This study focuses on understanding the complexities of legitimate authority in internationally led peace and statebuilding interventions Innovative theoretical approach engaging with local and contextual forms of legitimacy in peacebuilding contexts Introduces nuanced understandings of the concept of legitimacy Based on wide ranging fieldwork and twelve case studies Broader lessons for IR and for policy makers Includes local authors This edited volume focuses on disentangling the interplay of local peacebuilding processes and international policy via comparative theoretical and empirical work on the question of legitimacy and authority Using a number of conflict affected regions as case studies including Kosovo Iraq Bosnia Herzegovina and Sudan the book incorporates the expertise of a range of international scholars in order to understand the dynamics of local peacebuilding the construction of legitimate authority and its interplay with internationally led peace and state building interventions The commissioned chapters advance our understanding of local legitimacy sustainable international engagement and the hybrid forms of authority they produce Schooling, Conflict and Peace in the Southwestern Pacific David Oakeshott,2024-11-27 Bringing concepts from critical transitional justice and peacebuilding into dialogue with education this book examines the challenges youth and their teachers face in the post conflict settings of Bougainville and Solomon Islands Youth in these places must reconcile with the violent past of their parents generation while also learning how to live with people once on opposing sides This book traces how students and their teachers form connections to the past and each other that cut through the forces that might divide them The findings illustrate novel ways to think about the potential for education to assist post conflict recovery

Constitution Making during State Building Joanne Wallis,2014-09-15 How can fragmented divided societies that are not immediately compatible with centralised statehood best adjust to state structures This book employs both comparative constitutional law and comparative politics as it proposes the idea of a constituent process whereby public participation in constitution making plays a positive role in state building This can help to foster a sense of political community and produce a constitution that enhances the legitimacy and effectiveness of state institutions because a liberal local hybrid can emerge to balance international liberal practices with local customary ones This book represents a sustained attempt to examine the role that public participation has played during state building and the consequences it has had for the performance of the state It is also the first attempt to conduct a detailed empirical study of the role played by the liberal local hybrid approach in state building The Palgrave Encyclopedia of Peace and Conflict Studies Oliver P. Richmond,Gëzim
