Lori Hager, 2005-08-18 This volume the first of its kind examines the role of women paleontologists and archaeologists in a field traditionally dominated by men Women researchers in this field have questioned many of the assumptions and developmental scenarios advanced by male scientists As a result of such efforts women have forged a more central role in models of human development and have radically altered the way in which human evolution is perceived This history of the feminist critique of science is of profound significance and will be of interest to all those who work in the fields of

Sets and Extensions in the Twentieth Century, 2012-01-24 Set theory is an autonomous and sophisticated field of mathematics that is extremely successful at analyzing mathematical propositions and gauging their consistency strength It is as a field of mathematics that both proceeds with its own internal questions and is capable of contextualizing over a broad range which makes set theory an intriguing and highly distinctive subject This handbook covers the rich history of scientific turning points in set theory providing fresh insights and points of view Written by leading researchers in the field both this volume and the Handbook as a whole are definitive reference tools for senior undergraduates graduate students and researchers in mathematics the history of philosophy and any discipline such as computer science cognitive psychology and artificial intelligence for whom the historical background of his or her work is a salient consideration Serves as a singular contribution to the intellectual history of the 20th century Contains the latest scholarly discoveries and interpretative insights Park Science, 1990 The Science of Color Steven K. Shevell, 2003-07-11 The Science of Color focuses on the principles and observations that are foundations of modern color science Written for a general scientific audience the book broadly covers essential topics in the interdisciplinary field of color drawing from physics physiology and psychology This book comprises eight chapters and begins by tracing scientific thinking about color since the seventeenth century This historical perspective provides an introduction to the fundamental questions in color science by following advances as well as misconceptions over more than 300 years The next chapters then discuss the relationship between light the retinal image and photoreceptors followed by a focus on concepts such as color matching and color discrimination color appearance and color difference specification the physiology of color vision the 15 mechanisms of the physics and chemistry of color and digital color reproduction Each chapter begins with a short outline that summarizes the organization and breadth of its material The outlines are valuable guides to chapter structure and worth scanning even by readers who may not care to go through a chapter from start to finish This book will be of interest to scientists artists manufacturers and students Atlas of Satellite Observations Related to Global Change Robert J. Gurney, James L. Foster, Claire L.
