Social Work Brian J. Taylor, Campbell Killick, Anne McGlade, 2015-10-19 How do social work students learn to use research to underpin their practice decisions How do they learn that research is not an activity unconnected to their professional role and responsibilities but rather acts as a foundation for their knowledge By using the examples drawn from evidence based practice e g what is known to work and what we know about social work processes the authors deliver a text that will help support students to appraise and then integrate research into both their daily practice decisions and their assignments and assessments It will do this by defining key concepts like knowledge and evidence and then look at how these concepts include component parts from law and legislation to practice knowledge and reflective and critical practice Case examples are used to illustrate how a clear understanding of these component parts can build to a substantial evidence base from which to draw upon Identifying relevant research and appraising its quality are core aspects of the book Later chapters show students how robust knowledge of evidence based practice can develop into a clear and confident approach to their workloads and their daily practice dilemmas

Research for Social Workers Margaret Alston, Wendy Bowles, 2003 An introduction to research methods specifically needed in social work and social welfare this text outlines the major stages of research projects covering both quantitative and qualitative methods

The Philosophical Foundations of Social Work Frederic G. Reamer, 2022-09-06 Social work rests on complex philosophical assumptions that should be central to practice education and training In this book Frederic G Reamer explores how these issues bear on the purpose methods and perspectives of social work and their far reaching implications for practice and scholarship Reamer examines major themes across the domains of moral and political philosophy logic epistemology and aesthetics He raises questions such as How can ethical theories inform social workers moral judgments In what ways are canons of inductive and deductive logic relevant to social workers thinking about their work To what extent can scientific inquiry help social workers understand the nature and effect of their interventions How can concepts related to aesthetics shed light on the nature of social work Reamer's nuanced inquiry never loses sight of the concrete applications of philosophy to social work practice with individuals families groups organizations and communities or to broader goals of social change This second edition of The Philosophical Foundations of Social Work is revised and updated throughout to address contemporary challenges It focuses especially on newer thinking about the role of non Western philosophical perspectives and the relevance of philosophy to social workers commitments to multiculturalism feminism and antiracism

Social Work Research Heather D'Cruz, Martyn Jones, 2004-06-09 Written in an engaging and accessible style this book bridges the gap between theory and reality by discussing a range of research paradigms and placing them in the context of professional social work It also discusses the political and ethical contexts that are intrinsic to social work practice

Cognitive-behavioural Social Work in Practice Katy Cigno, Diana Bourn, 2017-07-05 Cognitive Behavioural Social Work in Practice appears at an interesting time for social work and social services More than ever practitioners are required to provide evidence for the effectiveness of what they do while the rights of service users to ethically competent practice in which they are partners is high on the agenda Drawing on a wide area of research as well as the practice experience of its 18 contributors it covers a broad range of cognitive behavioural intervention with different client groups in a variety of settings including child care family work probation and offending behaviour mental health disability and issues concerning older people The first chapter sets out lucidly the theoretical and research basis for cognitive behavioural practice and is rich in case examples Each subsequent chapter adopts a case study approach to its subject either by providing a single case study or by the detailed exploration of an area of practice combined with case examples The volume is unique in not only bringing together practitioners and academics but in presenting the work of the academic reflective practitioner It is thus an accessible informative guide for professionals students and educators who with all their working pressures and constraints strive to provide help based on best evidence

Program Evaluation and Family Violence Research Sally K. Ward, David Finkelhor, 2014-05-22 Understand and evaluate family violence programs for your community Twenty years ago the major issue in creating interventions to prevent domestic violence was persuading the courts the funding agencies and society that domestic violence was a serious problem worthy of time trouble and money Now that the importance of domestic violence has been established we need safe and effective ways to evaluate those interventions to see which ones are working and how they can be improved Program Evaluation and Family Violence Research brings together some of the best minds in the field discussing such vital evaluation issues as policy implications alternative designs for evaluation studies and ethical concerns This comprehensive book approaches the vexed question of evaluation with compassion as well as scientific rigor Clearly traditional double blind studies and control groups are difficult to conduct when family violence is the subject it is ethically indefensible to sit back and watch abusers hurt their mates or children when interventions are available Yet finding usable methods of program evaluation is also essential Program Evaluation and Family Violence Research confronts these questions and discusses practical ways to evaluate a variety of domestic violence programs Program Evaluation and Family Violence Research draws on years of experience to address the difficult questions raised including going beyond evaluating program effectiveness to analyze why and how interventions help change behavior creating new research designs to adapt to the unique concerns of the family violence field using meta analysis for program evaluation research determining the interaction between research and program results identifying barriers between community activists and social scientists that may impede research Program Evaluation and Family Violence Research offers fresh and creative ways to do program evaluations guarantee subjects physical and emotional safety and make good science humane

Research Methods in Child Welfare Amy J. L. Baker, Benjamin J. Charvat, 2008-06-17 Social service agencies are facing the same expectations in quality management and outcomes as private companies compelling staff members and researchers to provide and interpret valid and useful research to stakeholders at all levels in the field Child welfare agencies are particularly scrutinized In this textbook two highly experienced researchers offer the best techniques for conducting sound research in the field Covering not only the methodological challenges but also the real life constraints of research in child welfare settings Amy J L Baker and Benjamin J Charvat present a volume that can be used both for general research methods and as a practical guide for conducting research in the field of child welfare Baker and Charvat devote an entire chapter to ethical issues involved in researching children and their families and the limits of confidentiality within this population They weave a discussion of ethics throughout the book and each chapter begins with a scenario that presents a question or problem to work through enabling readers to fully grasp the methods in the context of a specific setting or area of concern Special sections concentrate on the value of continuous quality improvement activities which enable the collection and analysis of data outside of the strictures of publishable research and the implementation of program evaluations which can be helpful in obtaining further research and programmatic funding
