Dudden, 1983 Examines the daily lives and social conditions of household servants and discusses their relationships with their female employers At Home in Nineteenth-Century America Amy G. Richter, 2015-01-23 Few institutions were as central to nineteenth century American culture as the home Emerging in the 1820s as a sentimental space apart from the public world of commerce and politics the Victorian home transcended its initial association with the private lives of the white native born bourgeoisie to cross lines of race ethnicity class and region Throughout the nineteenth century home was celebrated as a moral force domesticity moved freely into the worlds of politics and reform and home and marketplace repeatedly remade each other At Home in Nineteenth Century America draws upon advice manuals architectural designs personal accounts popular fiction advertising images and reform literature to revisit the variety of places Americans called home Entering into middle class suburban houses slave cabins working class tenements frontier dugouts urban settlement houses it explores the shifting interpretations and experiences of these spaces from within and without Nineteenth century homes and notions of domesticity seem simultaneously distant and familiar This sense of surprise and recognition is ideal for the study of history preparing us to view the past with curiosity and empathy inspiring comparisons to the spaces we inhabit today malls movie theaters city streets and college campuses Permitting us to listen closely to the nineteenth century's sweeping conversation about home in its various guises At Home in Nineteenth Century America encourages us to hear our contemporary conversation about the significance and meaning of home anew while appreciating the lingering imprint of past ideals Instructor's Guide Domesticity And Dirt Phyllis Palmer, 2010-09-23 Examining the cultural norms of women after Suffrage to define labor based on color Housework and Housewives in American Advertising Jessamyn Neuhaus, 2011-11-07 An analysis of how since the end of the 19th century advertising agencies and their housework product clients utilized a remarkably consistent depiction of housewives and housework illustrating that that although Second Wave feminism successfully called into question the housewife stereotype homemaking has remained an American feminine ideal A Companion to American Women's History Nancy A. Ingalls Wilder to Willa Cather and Marilynne Robinson from the mid nineteenth to the late twentieth centuries western authors have persistently embraced wayward or eccentric housekeeping to prove a woman's difference from western neighbors and eastern readers alike The readings in Playing House investigate the surprising textual ends to which westerners turn the familiar terrain of the home evaluating community arguing for different conceptions of race and class and perhaps most especially resisting traditional gender roles Western women writers Halverson argues render the home as a stage for autonomy resistance and imagination rather than as a site of sacrifice and obligation The western women examined in Playing House in the American West are promoted and read as representatives of a region as insiders offering views of distant and intriguing ways of life even as they conceive of themselves as outsiders By playing with domestic conventions they recast the region they describe portraying the West as a place that fosters female agency individuality and subjectivity
