After the Silents Michael Slowik, 2014-10-21 Many believe Max Steiner's score for King Kong 1933 was the first important attempt at integrating background music into sound film but a closer look at the industry's early sound era 1926-1934 reveals a more extended and fascinating story. Viewing more than two hundred films from the period, Michael Slowik launches the first comprehensive study of a long neglected phase in Hollywood's initial development, recasting the history of film sound and its relationship to the Golden Age of film music. 1935-1950: Slowik follows filmmakers shifting combinations of sound and image, recapturing the volatility of this era and the variety of film music strategies that were tested, abandoned, and kept. He explores early film music experiments and accompaniment practices in opera, melodrama, musicals, radio, and silent films, and discusses the impact of the advent of synchronized dialogue. He concludes with a reassessment of King Kong and its groundbreaking approach to film music, challenging the film's place and importance in the timeline of sound achievement.

Bataille Fred Botting, Scott Wilson, 2001-04-04 One of the most profound thinkers of the twentieth century, Georges Bataille has only recently come to prominence in the Anglophone academy, partly through the influence of post-structuralism. Once seen as no more than a philosopher of eroticism and a writer of avant-garde pornography, Bataille is emerging as an absolutely central figure to discussions of culture, economy, subjectivity, and difference. Bataille is the first volume of its kind to offer lucid, diverse, and relevant examples of the ways of reading literary and cultural texts in the light of Bataille's work. The essays explore the significance of Bataillean notions like heterology, general economy, transgression, and eroticism through detailed readings of Shakespearean, Elizabethan, and Jacobean literature; in analyses of Gothic and postmodern fiction; and in critiques of popular culture, rock music, and Hollywood movies. In order to make Bataillean notions more comprehensible to contemporary readers, his concepts are situated in relation to the ideas of renowned critical and cultural theorists like Baudrillard, Deleuze, Derrida, Kristeva, Lacan, as well as Hegel, Freud, Nietzsche, and Marx. Here, the influence of Bataille is outlined in intellectual and historical terms, and the significance of his work can be seen for both contemporary and future modes of cultural analysis.

Unsettled Scores Sally Bick, 2019-12-20 The Hollywood careers of Aaron Copland and Hanns Eisler brought the composers and their high-art sensibility into direct conflict with the premier producer of America's potent mass culture. Drawn by Hollywood's potential to reach and edify the public, Copland and Eisler expertly wove sophisticated musical ideas into Hollywood, and each in their own distinctive way left an indelible mark on movie history. Sally Bick's dual study of Copland and Eisler pairs interpretations of their writings on film composing with a close examination of their first Hollywood projects: Copland's music for Of Mice and Men and Eisler's score for Hangmen. Also, Bick illuminates the different ways the composers treated a film score as a means of expressing their political ideas on society, capitalism, and the human condition. She also delves into Copland's and Eisler's often conflicted attempts to adapt their music to fit Hollywood's commercial demands, an enterprise that took place even as they wrote hostile critiques of the film industry.
