Science in the Marketplace Aileen Fyfe, Bernard Lightman, 2007-09-10 The nineteenth century was an age of transformation in science when scientists were rewarded for their startling new discoveries with increased social status and authority But it was also a time when ordinary people from across the social spectrum were given the opportunity to participate in science for education entertainment or both In Victorian Britain science could be encountered in myriad forms and in countless locations in panoramic shows exhibitions and galleries in city museums and country houses in popular lectures and even in domestic conversations that revolved around the latest books and periodicals Science in the Marketplace reveals this other side of Victorian scientific life by placing the sciences in the wider cultural marketplace ultimately showing that the creation of new sites and audiences was just as crucial to the growing public interest in science as were the scientists themselves By focusing attention on the scientific audience as opposed to the scientific community or self styled popularizers Science in the Marketplace ably links larger societal changes in literacy in industrial technologies and in leisure to the evolution of popular science

The Poetry of Erasmus Darwin Martin Priestman, 2016-02-24 While historians of science have focused significant attention on Erasmus Darwin s scientific ideas and milieu relatively little attention has been paid to Darwin as a literary writer In The Poetry of Erasmus Darwin Enlightened Spaces Romantic Times Martin Priestman situates Darwin s three major poems The Loves of the Plants 1789 The Economy of Vegetation 1791 and The Temple of Nature 1803 and Darwin himself within a large polymathic late Enlightenment network of other scientists writers thinkers and social movers and shakers Interpreting Darwin s poetry in terms of Darwin s broader sense of the poetic text as a material space he posits a significant shift from the Enlightenment s emphases on conceptual spaces to the Romantic period s emphases on historical time He shows how Darwin s poetry illuminates his stance toward all the major physical sciences and his well formulated theories of evolution and materially based psychology Priestman s study also offers the first substantial accounts of Darwin s mythological theories and their links to Enlightenment Rosicrucianism and Freemasonry and of the reading of history that emerges from the fragment poem The Progress of Society a first ever printed edition of which is included in an appendix Ultimately Priestman s book offers readers a sustained account of Darwin s polymathic Enlightenment worldview and cognate poetics in a period when texts are too often judged by their adherence to a retrospectively constructed Romanticism

The Radical Ecology of the Shelleys Colin Carman,2018-11-07 The Radical Ecology of the Shelleys Eros and Environment is the first full length study to explore a radically queer ecology at work in writings by Percy Bysshe Shelley and Mary Wollstonecraft Shelley as their discussions of nature and the natural consistently link ecology and erotic practice Initiated by Timothy Morton in 2010 as a hybrid of two schools of thinking about nature queer ecology combines the alertness of environmentalists to constructions of the natural with efforts of sexuality scholars to denaturalize identity and to expose sexuality as a culture bound construct Conceptions of place are central to this investigation not only because an attachment to place is traditionally thought to be the ontological basis of all environmental consciousness e g think globally act locally but because these two Romantic writers underscore the dynamic interaction between a person s natural surroundings and his her interpersonal attachments The poetical and prose writings of the Shelleys claim our special attention because of their unusual conception of the oikos the etymological root of ecology to mean both local grounds and the social often domestic places in which people dwell and desire The overarching thesis of this book asserts that proto ecological theories in Romantic era England cannot be understood separately from discourses related to married family life and the texts considered demonstrate the comingling of earthly and erotic enjoyment The issues raised by Eros and Environment are fundamental not only to literary and queer history but to all humanistic studies They render the study of nature from a queer perspective a matter of intense interest to scholars in numerous disciplines ranging from ecocriticism and the natural sciences including climate studies to feminist criticism and sexuality studies

Biology and Ideology from Descartes to Dawkins Denis R. Alexander,Ronald L. Numbers,2010-05-15 Over the course of human history the sciences and biology in particular have often been manipulated to cause immense human suffering For example biology has been used to justify eugenic programs forced sterilization human experimentation and death camps all in an attempt to support notions of racial superiority By investigating the past the contributors to Biology and Ideology from Descartes to Dawkins hope to better prepare us to discern ideological abuse of science when it occurs in the future Denis R Alexander and Ronald L Numbers bring together fourteen experts to examine the varied ways science has been used and abused for nonscientific purposes from the fifteenth century to the present day Featuring an essay on eugenics from Edward J Larson and an examination of the progress of evolution by Michael J Ruse Biology and Ideology examines uses both benign and sinister ultimately reminding us that ideological extrapolation continues

Huneault, 2018-07-16 Notions of identity have long structured women's art Dynamics of race class and gender have shaped the production of artworks and oriented their subsequent reassessments Arguably this is especially true of art by women and of the socially engaged criticism that addresses it If identity has been a problem in women's art however is more identity the solution In this study of nineteenth and early twentieth century art in Canada Kristina Huneault offers a meditation on the strictures of identity and an exploration of forces that unsettle and realign the self Looking closely at individual artists and works Huneault combines formal analysis with archival research and philosophical inquiry building nuanced readings of objects that range from the canonical to the largely unknown Whether in miniature portraits or genre paintings botanical drawings or baskets women artists reckoned with constraints that limited understandings of themselves and others They also forged creative alternatives At times identity features in women's artistic work as a failed project at other times it marks a boundary beyond which they were able to expand explore and exult Bringing together settler and indigenous forms of cultural expression and foregrounding the importance of colonialism within the development of art in Canada I'm Not Myself at All observes and reactivates historical art by women and prompts readers to consider what a less restrictive conceptualization of selfhood might bring to current patterns of cultural analysis Mungo Park's Ghost Dane Kennedy, 2024-01-25 In 1816 the British sent two large ambitious expeditions to Africa one to follow the Niger River to its outlet the other to trace the Congo River to its source Their shared goal was to complete the unfinished mission of Mungo Park who had disappeared during a journey to determine whether the Niger and the Congo were the same river Both quests ended disastrously and were soon forgotten Telling the full story of these failed expeditions for the first time Dane Kennedy argues that they provide fresh insight into British ambitions in Africa He places them in the contexts of the imperial rivalry with France the slave trade and the abolition campaign and the independent power wielded by African states and peoples He also shows that they were haunted by the same sense of hubris that would afflict many of the expeditions that followed This hubris was Mungo Park's ghost
